SEWER PACT RATIFIED BY GLENDALE

City Council Unanimously Agrees to Los Angeles Disposal Plan

By ARTHUR SHERBORNE
Of The Evening News Staff

GLENDALE'S connection with the Los Angeles outfall sewer system last night was advanced one stage further. At midnight the City Council here accepted the offer of the Los Angeles City Council to permit such connection after the contract has been approved at a special election. The possibility of rejecting this offer was not considered.

Discussion upon the contract which was prepared by the legal department of the City of Los Angeles, lasted three hours altogether. This period was divided by the regular session of the council.

Terms Satisfactory

The attitude of the council seemed to be that the City of Glendale is to be congratulated upon having secured such a favorable contract. The contract was discussed section by section with City Attorney Ray L. Morrow. It was agreed that the contract as a whole is most satisfactory.

The honor of making the motion for the ratification of the contract was obtained by Councilman C. E. Kimlin. It was seconded by Councilman Sam Davis and carried unanimously.

The official motion, as recorded by City Clerk A. J. VanWie, was as follows:

Text of Motion

"Be it resolved by the council of the City of Glendale that a certain agreement dated September 26, 1923 between the City of Los Angeles and the City of Glendale providing for the construction of a sanitary sewer, in accordance with the terms, covenants and conditions maintained in said agreement is hereby approved and the mayor of the City of Glendale and the city clerk thereof hereby are instructed to execute said agreement for and on behalf of the City of Glendale."

The subject was not discussed at the regular meeting of the council, which was held between 9 and 10 p. m., much to the disappointment of a number of citizens who had attended in order to be present when the contract was approved. The fact was brought out that the council had no opportunity to examine the contract previous to its meeting last night, as a committee of the whole.

Speed Is Necessary

As the contract specifies that a special election must be called within ninety days, the council is aware that all possible dispatch must be used in preparing the necessary preliminaries.

As soon as possible an expert sanitary engineer is to be employed with the understanding that he is to rush plans for a local sewer system. It is believed very desirable to include the cost of the main trunk lines in the special bond election.

JOHNSON IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28. —Returning from a swing through the counties of Southern California, Senator Hiram Johnson arrived in Los Angeles today and will be the honor guest tonight at a dinner at which 150 Republicans of Los Angeles county will attend.

300 Traffic Law Violations Hourly Here Chief Says

VIOLATIONS of traffic regulations are almost too numerous to count in the opinion of Col. J. D. Fraser, chief of the local police department.

Unknown to motorists, officers have been stationed at some of the most active corners in Glendale to count the violations without making any attempt to arrest the violators. Their reports are proving a revelation at the city hall. For instance, in one hour 165 motorists turned the corner of Brand boulevard and Colorado street without giving the proper arm signal.

Violations of all kinds at any of the important intersections with Brand boulevard average between fifty and seventy-five an hour, according to the estimate of Colonel Fraser. He believes that the hourly record of violators all over the city is between 200 and 300.

Paving Way to Reparation Negotiations

GUSTAV STRESEMANN

Allied Diplomats Confer in Berlin With Chancellor of Germany Today

By S. D. WEYER
For International News Service

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—Allied diplomats called upon Chancellor Stresemann today indicating that the ground was being prepared for new reparations negotiations.

The government's warning against any attempt at uprising has cowed both the communists and monarchists. No disorders had been reported up to noon, and officials were confident that its conditional surrender to France would not lead to internal strife.

ORDER IMPROVING OF SAN FERNANDO

L. H. Wilson Appears Before Council and Gains Two Points for Road

L. H. Wilson, realtor, 1034 South San Fernando road, last night presented written communications to the city council involving several matters of interest to the South San Fernando road district.

A petition for the widening of San Fernando road for ten feet on each side of the street between Los Feliz road and Garfield avenue and between Pacific avenue and Los Angeles street on the north side of the street was filed.

Mr. Wilson already has donated a ten-foot strip on the west side of the street between Garfield and Pacific avenues and between Pacific avenue and Los Angeles streets on the south side of the street. This means that the widened street will extend from Los Feliz road to Los Angeles street.

The frontage involved in the improvement is 7,207 feet, while the frontage represented on the petition is 4,300 feet or 60 per cent. Therefore, City Engineer Ben F. Dupuy recommended that the proceedings be started in accordance with the request.

Request for Lights

The placing of San Fernando road between Pacific avenue and Milford street in a fire district was approved by the city council. R. E. Johnston of 440 South San Fernando road called attention to the fact that the frontage at either end of this district is in a fire district already.

As the owner of 70 per cent of the frontage involved, L. H. Wilson requested the installation of ornamental street lights and the installation of water pipe and the paving of Garfield avenue from San Fernando road to Los Angeles street and Los Angeles street north to Pacific avenue.

A little humor was hurled into the conversation when Mayor Spencer Robinson drolly inquired if Realtor Wilsons owns all the property "down there."

Councilman W. A. Horn, seconded by Councilman C. E. Kimlin, put the motion that the necessary proceedings be started. It was carried unanimously.

Postmaster Says It's Raining---Back East

Weather report: Raining! However, rubber boots, raincoats and umbrellas will not be necessary here today for this report is from Springfield, Mass. Capt. D. Ripley Jackson of 1800 South Brand boulevard writes from there as follows: "Raining, Ah, for my dear California sunshine."

He is postmaster here and with W. C. Waring is boosting Glendale while attending the National Exchange Club convention in the eastern city.

Customs, Food and Money of English Described by Kirk

ENGLISH customs that seem unusual to an American tourist, are described by W. B. Kirk in the letter just received at The Glendale Evening News office. It says:

W. B. KIRK

"If you are an American tourist and go into the drawing room, smoking or writing rooms of any good hotel over here, you will find a splendid illustration of the thoughtfulness and consideration for its guests. No matter how few there be who are writing or reading, the room is as quiet as a cemetery.

"People in evening dress may be having tea or quietly resting and conversing. It is most impressive.

"Their traditions and conservativeness, on the other hand, cause them to cling to old ideas and customs, which don't suit ours at all. They build their houses and business blocks so substantially and expensively that they can never afford to replace or remodel.

"They are satisfied to use fireplaces which give very inadequate heat in a country where the climate is adverse and good heating is necessary to comfort most of the year. Tile flues sticking up from the chimneys indicate the number of rooms that are so heated. They still use a great deal of gas for lighting.

"In plumbing they are away behind the times, very few rooms have running water and rooms with bath are very exceptional and high priced.

Don't Relish "Eats"

"In the matter of food they really don't know what good living is. They have good fish but serve it three times a day and one gets sick and tired of it. Their beef and lamb are very good, in quality, but what they call bacon at breakfast is nothing but ham and partly cooked usually.

"They know no breakfast food but porridge (ordinary oat meal) and they serve toast in those queer, nonsensical metal racks, where each piece is separated from the others, and will get cold as quickly as possible. And they usually serve this toast and your coffee before they bring the porridge.

Tons of Marmalade

"One nice thing they do, however, which is unusual with us, is to bring you hot milk as well as cold. After you are through with your porridge, fish, meat and eggs, you are supposed to finish with orange marmalade. The country which furnishes them the oranges for marmalade must get rid of a great deal of that fruit, because they use countless tons of it!

"The oranges and apples are very poor. Greengages and gooseberries are highly prized by them. You should see their puny tomatoes, tough peas and green cabbage. The latter is some delicacy with them, the greener the better.

"Their vegetable marrow is like a big summer squash but tasteless, and their boiled potatoes, oh, how sick I am of 'em. I have named their principal articles of diet.

They Don't Know Delicacies

"Their desserts are usually gelatine, with canned pineapple, ap-

SHERIFFS BATTLE ON LARK, REPORT

Threaten to 'Shoot Up' S. P. Train and Kill S. F. Attorney, Report

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28.—An alleged terrific hand to hand fight between two Los Angeles deputy sheriffs, who threatened to "shoot up" the train and a San Francisco attorney early today created wild excitement aboard the Southern Pacific crack passenger train, the "Lark," which arrived here this morning. Women passengers on the train were frightened and Sheriff Traeger dropped all other business to make an investigation of the action of the two officers' actions.

The deputies were Gilbert Blaisdell and J. A. Riddell, who were returning from having taken two prisoners to San Quentin penitentiary from here. The attorney was George L. Eagen, with offices in the Chronicle building in San Francisco.

Conductors and baggage men aboard the train were compelled to grapple with the deputies and disarm them after, it was claimed, they drew their revolvers and threatened to "shoot up" the train.

BABE RUTH GETS HOMER OFF EHMKE

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—Babe Ruth landed on one of Howard Ehmke's offerings for a homer in the sixth inning of today's game here. It was the first four-ply swat made my the Babe in some time and broke the tie of thirty-seven each existing between Ruth and Cy Williams of the Phillies.

COMMANDER PYE AGAIN ON NAVY GRILL

NORTH ISLAND, SAN DIEGO, Sept. 28.—Commander William S. Pye, in charge of the thirty-first division of the ill-fated destroyers, that was partially lost on Honda Head with the drowning of a score of blue jackets, was recalled to the stand this morning for cross-examination before the board of inquiry into the disaster.

GOLFERS SARAZEN AND HAGEN DUE TO MEET

PELHAM COUNTRY CLUB, NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Walter Hagen had an easy time today defeating George McLean in the semi-finals of the professional golfers' tourney here, winning 12 up and 11 to go. McLean did not have a look-in. At the end of the sixteenth hole, Gene Sarazen, present champion, was 7 up on Bobby Cruikshank, thus making it certain that Sarazen and Hagen will meet tomorrow for the title.

FLOOD RESCUE WORK PROVES UNAVAILING

CASPER, Wyo., Sept. 28.—A party of motorists returning here at noon today from the scene of the disastrous wreck of Chicago, Burlington & Quincy passenger train No. 30, told International News Service that all efforts up to that hour to reach the cars that are submerged in Cold creek, near Lockett, fourteen miles east of here, had been unavailing.

New Substation of Postoffice to Open Oct. 16

ASSISTANT Postmaster George Hallett this morning received a telegram from John H. Bartlett, first assistant postmaster general, authorizing the establishment of a sub-station of the Glendale postoffice, to be known as No. 4. Contract Station, at 612 East Broadway, to be opened October 16. The agreement of Mrs. May E. Myton, 1504 East Maple avenue, has been accepted by the postoffice department, at a figure of $900 per annum.

The new sub-station will handle all of the business connected with the main postoffice here except the departments connected with postal savings and foreign parcel post. Mail will be received at the sub-station but deliveries will be made through the main office force. The necessary fixtures will be provided by the lessors, Philips & Horn.

PROFESSOR SAW CZAR'S DOWNFALL

Occidental Faculty Member Tells of Escape From Siberian Exile

By LARRY RAYMOND
Written for The Evening News

Occidental college is honored by having Professor George M. Day as a new member of the faculty. He was well known as secretary, for eight years, of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. in Russia, and recently as Pacific coast secretary of the committee on friendly relations among foreign students. Professor Day has an A. B. and also an A. M. from Hamilton college, and he studied at Halle and Marburg, in Europe. He has had a varied experience as instructor in San Francisco Theological seminary, war worker among the prisoners from 1915 to 1917, and traveler in all parts of the globe.

Professor Day has had a most adventurous, romantic career, which he has related to a member of The Evening News Staff. In 1909 he became student secretary of the international Y. M. C. A., and went to Russia, where he carried on a campaign of friendship among the Russian students at the University of Petrograd. He was in Russia when the famous Russian writer, Tolstoy, died, in November, 1910.

The death of this great author was the occasion for a huge student memorial mass meeting. The meeting was broken up by the police. Three hundred were arrested and exiled to Siberia for two years without a trial of any kind. Professor Day and one other American were arrested, also, but managed to escape the exile sentence by possessing American passports.

Czar Feared Plot

The reason for the unjust arrest was due to the fact that the government was opposed to Tolstoy and his political party. They feared a plot to overthrow the government might be brewing at the mass meeting.

The major sport of the students was to gather in the long corridors and smoke and plot against the government for mere pleasure. There are no forms of athletics in the Russian schools, and very little social or fraternal life before the revolution.

All the men are eager to know about the United States and its social life and freedom. They are well read in the literature of America, and like Jack London, Bret Harte and Mark Twain.

Enters War Work

Professor Day went to Kiev in 1913, and when the war broke out he entered the Y. M. C. A. war work. He enlisted in the American unit of the Red Cross at Kiev, and worked much of the time with the Austrian prisoners in Siberia.

Professor Day had the interesting experience of witnessing the Russian economic revolution in Petrograd, March, 1917. He watched the developments from the first stages of hunger

Woman Fights Off Alleged Klan Party In Illinois Village

St. Louis Police Search for Victim of Mail Carrier's Battling Wife

By JACK CEJNAR
For International News Service

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28.—How a courageous Illinois woman routed four hooded, self-styled Ku Klux Klansmen who came to intimidate her from testifying in an alienation suit and were greeted with bullets when they threatened her with death, was disclosed here by St. Louis police today.

They began an intensive search of hospitals to find the alleged klan leader, shot by Mrs. E. N. Benjamin of Coulterville, Ill., on Monday night.

Mrs. Benjamin's husband who is a rural mail carrier, today authorized the police to offer a reward of $300 each for the arrest of four men who threatened his wife with death while he was away from home, if she testified in a certain suit.

According to Mr. Benjamin, his wife was to testify in an alienation suit brought by Henry Gressing of St. Louis, against L. D. Jones of Coulterville. The case came to trial yesterday at Chester, Ill., but was continued to the March term.

Klan Members Targets of Window Smashers

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 28.—Broken glass and smashed and paint besmeared show windows were left in the trail of raiders here today who made a round of the business districts of the city attacking stores which either advertised "100 per cent Americanism" or were thought to be in sympathy with the Ku Klux Klan.

New Offensive Against Oklahoma Governor Seen by Officials

By JAS. L. KILGALLEN
For International News Service

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 28.—A new offensive against the military rule of Oklahoma by Governor J. C. (Iron Jack) Walton was set in motion today. Forces opposed to the spectacular governor were bending every energy to bring about a special election next Tuesday which would decide the state's outstanding political question:

"Shall the legislature meet for the purpose of impeaching the governor?"

This initiative petition provides for the vitalization of the state constitution permitting the legislature to convene by a majority call. If, therefore, the people of the state vote yes on the initiative petition, the legislature, which, on Wednesday, was dispersed at the point of the bayonet, could assemble immediately after the election and proceed with the business of kicking the governor out of office.

State supreme court justices, after a conference today, decided to defer consideration of legal technicalities standing in the way of a special election October 2 until the entire court of seven justices are present, which will not be until tomorrow. Two of the justices were out of the city today.

At the same time it was reported Governor J. C. Walton was planning to block voting next Tuesday on "initiative petition No. 79," which provides for an amendment to the constitution permitting the legislature to convene by a majority call.

SCOUT ROUNDUP TO DRAW CROWDS

Verdugo District Troops to Stage Lively Program at Robison Estate

With the prospect that Doug, Jr., Pasadena scout and son of the famous Douglas Fairbanks, will be present at the District Boy Scout Round-up at La Crescenta tomorrow afternoon, September 29, large delegations of scouts, with their families, friends and guests are expected.

The Round-up will be held at "Los Robles Verdes," through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Robison. The road will be marked from Montrose. The affair is under the auspices of the Troop Leaders' Roundtable. Invitations have been extended to everybody in Glendale and the surrounding districts.

The program, which starts at 3 o'clock, is warranted to be full of ginger from the word "go," sharp at that hour, until the last notes of the bugle die on the mountain air at the end of the big camp fire that will conclude the "doin's."

A number of civic organizations are planning to attend in a body, bringing with them their families. Official representatives from these organizations will extend a word of good cheer to the Scouts, it is said.

Lively Program Planned

Starting at 3 o'clock all Scouts in the Verdugo Hills district, regardless of troop affiliation, will be divided into two groups and will play an exciting game of "capture the flag." From 5 until 6 o'clock the Scouts will challenge each other to various contests requiring a great deal of skill. Everybody is to bring a picnic dinner and eat it out under the green oaks from 6 until 7 o'clock.

Hot coffee and cocoa will be served by Scoutmaster Hal E. Leedom of Troop No. 1, Glendale, assisted by A. C. Cox, committeeman of the La Crescenta troop.

The camp fire will be officially lighted at 7 o'clock, by the old Indian method of rubbing sticks together. Walter Wescott, star athlete and football captain, will have with him his banjo and cornet of summer-camp fame, and will take charge of the first part of the program. Ed Alling, assistant summer-camp director, will also be among the guests of honor.

'SUNSHINE HOME' FOR AGED HERE

Institution Comes to Glendale From Ontario; Local Officials Named

Scores of worthy aged people, who once had homes and families, but are now left, lonely and friendless, to struggle for existence through their declining years, will welcome news that the Sunshine Homes association will establish, in Glendale, a permanent home of this nature.

Announcement to this effect is made by O. F. Saunders, secretary-treasurer of the association, who will have charge of the local institution. He states that a temporary home has been opened at 118 West Palmer avenue, where full information may be had. Headquarters formerly were in Ontario, it is said.

Makes Pathetic Plea

"It is a self-centered and calloused person, indeed, whose heart does not go out to the needy old folks, many of whom are somebody's mother or father," says Mr. Saunders. "Once they led in the community life, somewhere, built homes, raised families, contributed to charities, were active in civic and church affairs, and in every way gave their best to the nation.

"Now that the fortunes of life have turned and their burdens have become almost too heavy for bearing, what one of us but would go far out of our way to help them? It is to bring this aid that the Sunshine Homes association was organized, a non-sectarian Christian institution, not for profit, incorporated under the laws of the state of California, perpetuity secured in a board of nine trustees, who serve gratuitously.

Local People Named

"Since the Sunshine Homes association has become a local institution, at their annual election of trustees and officers, held recently, the association chose six Glendale residents as members of the board: Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Root, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Brown, Mrs. W. E. Pelley and Mrs. Pearl Keller. The other three trustees are: Miss Millie E. Karges and T. B. Cahoe of Los Angeles, and O. F. Saunders, formerly of Los Angeles, but now living in Glendale.

"Mrs. F. B. Root was elected president of the association and Mrs. W. E. Pelley vice-president. Both women are well known locally, being active philanthropic and social workers.

"It will be the plan of the association to conduct the home in such a manner as to offer sympathy and comfort to the old folks, giving them love and tender care as well as food to eat and clothes to wear."

FLOOD FOILS RAIL RESCUE WORKERS

Wyoming Disaster Death List Believed Less Than First Reported

DENVER, Sept. 28.—The Casper wreck on the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad has been "greatly exaggerated," according to L. C. McBride, assistant superintendent of that road, with headquarters here, who declared at 10 o'clock today that his information places the dead at not in excess of twenty persons. McBride said that only sixty tickets were sold at Casper.

CASPER, Wyo., Sept. 28.—Standing on either bank of Cold creek, scores of persons were helpless early today in efforts to remove the dead from the wreckage of Chicago, Burlington & Quincy passenger train No. 30, the engine and five cars of which plunged into the raging torrent from a bridge near Lockett, fourteen miles east of here last night.

The disaster, the worst in the annals of Wyoming railroads, took a toll estimated at twenty or more.

More Than 100 on Train

Dr. D. J. O'Donnell, surgeon for the railroad company, declared not more than forty were dead. A check of International News Service in Casper and Glen Rock, indicated that between 115 and 130 passengers were on the train when it left Casper.

The train, east bound from Casper to Denver, consisted of an engine, a mail car, a combination express and baggage car, a smoking coach, a chair car and two sleeping Pullmans.

A heavy downpour of rain throughout this section, followed by cloudbursts, resulted in the weakening of the abutments of the bridge over Cold creek, and when the train traveling slowly reached the bridge it caved in, the train with the exception of the rear Denver pullman plunging into the muddy waters. The latter car remained upright on the tracks, enabling its occupants to escape to safety. Twenty-eight persons were in this car.

Tales of Heroism

John Cristie, an oil driller of Glen Rock, after cutting a bell cord from the chair car, aided two women, two children and a man to reach safety by crawling hand over hand on a rope from the car to the bank. Nearly exhausted, he then reached the bank himself.

Scores of doctors, nurses, police, and volunteer workers were rushed immediately to the scene of the wreck, but the swirling, raging water made it impossible to reach the trapped passengers.

Police and railroad officials returned to Casper at 9 o'clock this morning in search of derricks and tackle to aid in dragging the submerged cars from the waters of the swollen creek.

In Need of Divers

S.O.S. calls were sent out all over Wyoming and northern Colorado early today for divers and heavy hoisting apparatus and it was thought removal of the dead could not be started until the middle of the day.

Cold creek had risen so rapidly and to such a height that the swirling waters were within two feet of the top of the bridge when the train plunged in.

According to railroad officials, a track walker had inspected the bridge only an hour before the Hero Cuts Bell Cord and Pulls Six to Safety!

GLEN ROCK, Wyo., Sept. 28.—John Cristie, an oil driller of Glen Rock, was the outstanding hero today of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad passenger wreck that resulted in the drowning of between twenty-five and forty persons in Cold creek, at the mouth of the Platte river, near Lockett, fifteen miles east of Casper.

Realizing the terrible situation, Cristie cut a bell-cord, climbed to the top of the Pullman car, which was partially submerged in the raging torrent of water, and threw it to the bank of the river, where a heavy rope was tied to the end of the cord.

Pulling the rope back to the car, Cristie aided six passengers to climb along the rope hand-over-hand to safety on the east bank of the creek. He later drowned.

C. E. Peck of 114 South Louise street left Wednesday night on a business trip to El Centro and is expected to return home tonight. Miss Rosa Peck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Peck, left yesterday for El Centro and will spend several weeks visiting with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bryson and family of Corona spent Wednesday and Thursday at the home of Mrs. Bryson's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Erskine of East Lexington drive. The visitors recently moved to Southern California from Portland, Oregon.

Several members of the First Methodist church attended, yesterday, the Lay Delegates' convention at the annual Methodist conference, which is being held at the First Methodist church in Los Angeles. They were Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lusby, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bott, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Wilson, Rev. and Mrs. E. Hoskyn, Mrs. B. F. Geiger, Mrs. C. E. Peck, Mrs. Sarah Thomas, Mrs. Yoeman and Mrs. C. W. Ingledue.

Mrs. Newton W. McBryde of 126 North Louise street, attended yesterday the Methodist conference, which is being held in Los Angeles.

Mrs. A. H. Betts, mother of Mrs. C. E. Chenoweth, has returned from a ten months' visit in Salt Lake City, and is again a guest at the Chenoveth home at 328 West Lexington drive.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Horn of 221 North Louise street and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Smith of 431 West Milford street just recently returned from San Diego and Coronado, where they spent an enjoyable week. They made the trip via automobile.

Dr. E. A. Palmer of Banning and Dr. N. J. Hartsell of Los Angeles, who are attending the Methodst conference, are to preach Sunday morning and night at the Pacific Avenue Methodist church. Dr. Hartsell was formerly pastor of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Ingledue of 501 East Wilson avenue are having the pleasure of entertaining as their guests, their nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Burba and daughter Betty, of Lima, Ohio. They intend to spend the winter in Southern California and may make their permanent home here.

Dr. Harry V. Brown, who has offices at 118 West Wilson avenue, returned home last night, after an enjoyable week's vacation at Catalina island. He was accompanied by his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Rynerson, of Los Angeles. Dr. Brown stated he thought September was the ideal month to spend a vacation at the island as far as climatic conditions were concerned. He had a wonderful time, but is glad to be at home again.

KNOW CHIMNEY SWEEP?

Mrs. J. B. Treadwell, 1936 South San Fernando road, appealed to The Glendale Evening News today to locate a "chimney sweep" here. She says she applied to Los Angeles, but agencies there refused to send a man out so far for that kind of work. If there be any such English artisans here she would like to know of them.

MINOR OPERATION

A minor operation was performed upon Miss Alfreda Foster of 217 North Verdugo road this morning at the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital.

Meet On Monday

The women's auxiliary of the local American legion post is to meet at 7:30 o'clock Monday night in the Legion hall on East Broadway. Mrs. Margaret Kaeding, president, will preside.

Make Club Plans

Preliminary to the opening meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club next Tuesday, October 2, for the club year, 1923-1924, Mrs. Daniel Campbell called her board of directors, curators of sections, chairmen of committees, parliamentarian and publicity chairmen in conference yesterday at the clubhouse.

It was an all day affair, the board members meeting in the morning at 9:30 o'clock in the palm room. Mrs. Campbell presided, and reports were heard from the standing committees.

Mrs. A. H. Montgomery, first vice president and chairman of ways and means, reported on plans for fall activities, namely a rummage sale, October 17 and 18; American Legion dinner October 26, foothill dinner, dance and radio party October 30, society circus November 16 and 17, when a Ford car will be given away.

The board members were unanimous in their praise of Mrs. Montgomery's devoted and successful service during the past year and she was accorded a rising vote of thanks.

It is of interest that Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Brand of North Glendale have invited the club to hold a big social affair at their estate some time in the near future. The invitation has been accepted.

A vote of thanks was also given Mrs. C. W. Houston and Mrs. F. C. Ayars, who have revised and compiled the new year-book.

Other announcements made were that cooked food sales are to be held on the second and fourth Tuesdays under the hospitality committee, led by Mrs. Homer Lockwood; that 500 of the auditorium chairs have been purchased; that the acousticon is to be installed in the auditorium this week; that the club is to be run this next year on a sound financial budget system; that the directors indorse the community chest project; that at each club luncheon Miss Eva Daniels, publicity chairman, will preside over a press table.

At noon the board of directors were luncheon guests of the domestic science department directed by Mrs. Allen Fairchild.

In the afternoon the club advisory council assembled, including members of the board, curators of sections and chairmen of committees and plans discussed for the coming year.

All club members have been invited to attend the first meeting of the music section Friday afternoon, October 12, in the clubhouse auditorium. Through the courtesy of France Goldwater a program will be given by Margaret Messer Morris, soprano, and Sol Cohen, violinist. Mrs. Warren Roberts is curator of the section.

"Seeing America"

The Travel section of the Tuesday Afternoon club which has recently been organized by the curator, Mrs. Mabel Franklin Ocker, opened activities for the year with a social meeting Tuesday afternoon.

This section will meet every second and fourth Wednesday of each month, at 10:30 o'clock in the morning. It is stated the members will "see America first" before taking up the study of any other countries.

During the meeting Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Ocker displayed a number of interesting antiques, which she has collected in her travels. One very interesting article which Mrs. Ocker particularly prizes is an old melodeon which formerly belonged to Admiral Perry of England.

Home From Trip

Mrs. W. W. Cookman of 638 North Louise street, who has been visiting relatives and friends in the east and middle west for the past four months, returned to her home last night. She spent most of the time with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Thompson at Morgantown, West Virginia. Mr. Thompson, the world's champion high hurdler, recently accepted the position as athletic coach at Yale University.

Mrs. Cookman also visited relatives in New Haven, Conn. New York City and Chicago. At Elizabeth, N. J., she vistied Rev. Cookman's sister, Mrs. S. H. Clark. En route home she visited her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Perry, at Lindley, and also spent a little time in San Francisco.

Missionary Talks

The Women's Missionary society, home and foreign, Mrs. H. B. Goldsborough, president of the Tropico Presbyterian church, were entertained at the home of Mrs. Bierly, 1030 Florence Place, on Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Frank Ashton had charge of the program and presented Miss Rose Scott of Los Angeles, educational director of the Presbyterian board of home missions in Southern California. Miss Scott spoke most interestingly of the work among the negroes, Alaskans, Japanese, Mormons, Mexicans and the mountaineers.

Following the program, the hostess, Mrs. Bierly, assisted by Mrs. James Cunningham served light refreshments.

Entertains Choir

Mrs. W. F. Blaikie of 1113 Viola street, was hostess last night to the members of the choir of the Casa Verdugo Methodist church. Following the practice hour, a delicious supper was served at prettily decorated tables. Guests numbered sixteen.

With Mrs. Scott

The J. O. C. Class of the Pacific Avenue Methodist church, will meet tonight at the home of Mrs. Mary Scott, 427 West Colorado street.

At this time election of officers will take place and every member is urged to be present.

Opening Meeting

"Co-operation," was the dominant note throughout the program of the first meeting of the year of the Glendale Avenue P.-T. A. held yesterday afternoon at the school. A short business meeting was held with the president, Mrs. O. H. Spradling in the chair and Mrs. R. H. Lord acting secretary in the absence of Mrs. F. A. Crizer.

The program opened with the flag salute, led by the patriotic chairman, Miss Gladys Sharpe. Mrs. E. B. Moore, president of the Glendale federation brought greetings to the organization and spoke briefly on "Co-operation," its value in the administration of the schools.

Superintendent Richardson D. White was next introduced and spoke at some length on the importance of co-operation between parents and the faculty, particularly during the intermediate age, which is the adolescent period. He also stated that he attributed the pronounced success of the Glendale Avenue P.-T. A. in their undertakings during the past year to the splendid co-operative spirit of the organization. Mr. White also presented some convincing reasons for supporting the movement to establish a junior high school.

Principal Norman R. Whytock spoke a few words of welcome to the mothers with greetings from the faculty of the school. He announced that the new class rooms were ready for use and the new auditorium will be ready for use within a very few days.

The school cafeteria will not open for about six weeks.

Following the close of the program, a social hour was enjoyed. The next regular meeting will take place the fourth Thursday in October.

Delphian Hostess

Preparatory to entering on the real work of the year, the study of the drama, the Glendale chapter of the Alpha Delphians enjoyed a business and social affair at the home of Mrs. Chas. Marshall, 525 South Central avenue Thursday afternoon. There was a good attendance and the year's work promises to be very interesting. Several new members were added.

The officers for this year are Mrs. P. O. Lucas, president; Mrs. Barton Mambert, first vice-president; Mrs. E. B. Alsberg, second vice-president; Miss Martha Cox, secretary.

A board meeting was held last week and during the business session Thursday a number of the board's recommendations were adopted. The leaders of the two study groups announced the next group of meetings were to be held the second Thursday in October.

The Lotus group, Mrs. E. L. Mason, leader, will meet with Mrs. E. D. Yard, 431 North Maryland and the Ivy group with Mrs. Barton Mambert, 621 South Columbus.

Subject for both groups is "Dramatic Instinct, and the Earliest Real Drama."

The next general chapter meeting will be held the fourth Thursday in October.

During the social hour Mrs. R. S. Sitz, accompanying herself, sang "Little Pink Rose," (Bond). Delicious refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by the hostess, Mrs. Marshall.

With Mrs. Duffy

Mrs. F. M. Duffy of 209 West Magnolia avenue was hostess last Wednesday night to the members of the Rodaire club.

The evening was devoted to sewing and an informal social time. Later a dainty course of refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Ray Engle, 712 South Maryland avenue, Wednesday, October 3.

Receives Class

Mrs. P. E. Maxwell of 129 West Burchett street was hostess yesterday afternoon to the members of the R. T. W. class of the First Baptist church. This was the first regular monthly business meeting of the year and about seventy-five members were in attendance.

The afternoon was devoted to sewing and a social time.

Later refreshments were served by the hostess and assisting hostesses, Mesdames William H. Daniel, B. Monte Wonacott and J. R. Bentley.

Church Carnival

Plans were inaugurated at the meeting last night of the Foothill Tennis club for a carnival to be given at the Casa Verdugo Methodist church on the evening of October 5, at 7:30 o'clock. Tickets for this affair may be purchased at the door or from any of the members.

The committee in charge includes, Malcolm Barnard, Misses Blanche Tallman, Ellen Rasch, and Dell Drake. Further arrangements and details will be announced at a later date.

Hold Food Sale

There were eighteen St. Mark's Guild women meeting yesterday all day at the home of Mrs. M. M. Kemp at 204½ East Chestnut street.

During the meeting it was decided to hold a cooked food sale tomorrow, beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning, at the Coker & Taylor store, 209 South Brand boulevard.

The Guild will meet again next week at Mrs. Kemp's home.

Teachers' Picnic

The high school teachers' club is holding its annual get-together and outing for the new members this afternoon at Brookside park, Pasadena. Miss Mary Hairgrove, who is chairman of the social committee, announces that plans have been made for a number of novel features for the occasion.

GUARD PAPYRUS ON WAY TO U. S.

'Chemically Pure' Stables Ready for English Thoroughbred

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Guarded with jealous care of a mother for her first born, Papyrus, the English derby winner, named to meet one of the leading American three-year-olds in the $100,000 match at Belmont park October 20, is due to arrive in this country Friday afternoon. The colt will be carefully removed from his padded stall on the Aquitania, led to a waiting truck, also heavily padded, and driven with great caution to Belmont park, where the Cosden stable will be turned over to him as a temporary home.

Once there, three Pinkerton men, operating in eight-hour shifts, will stand guard over Papyrus until the hour of the race, with Bail Jarvis, the trainer, in almost constant attendance.

Chemically Pure

In preparation for the arrival of this notable guest, August Belmont had visited the Cosden quarters on a tour of inspection and left instructions that every stall must be disinfected thoroughly before the colt is moved in. They might have taken more pains to protect the king's coronet. We doubt it.

Papyrus is to be accorded every opportunity to run his "time" race in the international affair. Only the most trustworthy of American stable boys are to be allowed in his quarters, and the presence of the detectives will cramp the style of any petty larcenist who might wish to tamper with the colt before the race.

Such racing men as August Belmont, J. E. Widener and others also plan to place themselves at the service of Ben Irish, the British sportsman, who is sending his horse to this country in the face of British pessimism and great expense so that capabilities of American and English thoroughbred stock might be compared under colors.

Proves Good Sailor

Although the sea trip and change of climate are almost certain to react to the disadvantage of Papyrus, the colt seems to have been favored by good fortune on the trip thus far. According to advices, via wireless, the Aquitania ran into unusually heavy seas, but Papyrus proved a fine sailor and has withstood the pitch of the ship without worry or visible inconveniences. His appetite in particular seems to be normal.

It is different with Bar Gold. The latter has not fared so well, suffering from chronic sea sickness and eating very little.

If Bar Gold and not Papyrus were the nominee for the race, it is altogether doubtful whether there would be any race.

Eyewitnesses Reveal Story of Flood Wreck

fatal plunge came and declared it was safe. The belief was expressed that a severe cloudburst descended down the creek immediately following the inspection, resulting in weakening of the bridge abutments that caused it to give way when the heavy train ran on to it.

Names of Missing

The locomotive and cars that plunged into the waters were completely submerged, except for one end of the chair car, which protruded above the still raging waters. The smoking car had telescoped the chair car, both sinking beneath the water's surface.

Among the passengers known to have been aboard the train and now missing are: Ernest Kipp of San Francisco; W. R. Douglas, a Chicago hat salesman, and Albert Hall, of Dodge City, Kansas.

Eyewitnesses Tell How They Escaped

CASPER, Wyo., Sept. 28.—Two survivors of the appalling wreck of Chicago, Burlington & Quincy train No. 30, gave the first graphic eyewitness stories of the sudden disaster which snuffed out seventy lives.

Daniel J. McQuaid, of Rochester, N. Y., salesman for an optical firm, struggled four miles through mud and rain to reach Big Muddy oil fields and there gave word of the tragedy to the few inhabitants. McQuaid telephoned to his wife, who was in Denver, details of the wreck, declaring he had just escaped from the worst wreck in western railway history, but that he was not injured.

Harry Wyatt, the other survivor, who has told his story, did not give his address.

Wyatt dramatically told of how he saw a few women and men struggle through windows and doors of the coaches, climb to the top and cling there while the water swished about the train.

"They hung there and screamed for help," he said, "while the water roared by a stream that defied any one to reach the unfortunate people. It was a torrent. No man could swim it."

strikes and the attack on the people by the czar's police to the time when Kerensky came into power.

He left Russia before the Bolsheviks came into power. Making the long journey back to the United States, through Siberia, China and Japan, he arrived on the Pacific coast in the summer of 1917. He returned to Europe the latter part of that year, going to London, and hoping to go to Russia again. The Finland blockade prohibited this, and so he was sent to France and worked with the Russian troops attached to the French division.

Decorated for Bravery

Even after Russia and Germany made peace, these Russian soldiers continued with the allies. Professor Day was decorated for bravery at the front. He received the Order of Saint Stanislaus, presented by General Lokhovitsky, the commander of all the Russian troops in France.

Professor Day came back to this country in May, 1919. He hopes to go back to Russia soon, as he feels that he is best fitted for that work.

He is connected with a committee on behalf of Russian students coming to California. Five hundred are here now. Mr. Day is planning to form a Cosmopolitan club at Occidental. Ten foreign students are guests of the institution this year.

ENGLISH CUSTOMS TOLD IN LETTER

W. B. Kirk Writes About Morals, Money and Food in London Town

ricots or peaches; bread pudding or ice cream.

"At one high-priced dinner the other evening we were served a yellow melon from Spain, about the size and shape of our honeydews, cut into thin slices and packed with ice, eaten with ginger or sugar. It is absolutely tasteless and worthless.

"They know practically nothing of our delicious cantaloupes, honey-dews, casabas, watermelons, grapefruit, fresh apricots, grapes, peaches, figs, ripe olives, sweet corn, sweet potatoes, squashes, dark breads, corn bread, variety of cereals, pies and cakes. They do have a little cake and are 'strong' for crackers.

About Their Meals

"Although they consume plenty of ale and other liquors, they have unlicensed (called temperance) hotels. This is one. Their respect for religion, the church, art, science and the higher things is great, and will never be shaken so I am persuaded that their good sense will put them in the list of 'dry' countries before many years.

"They have no real Sunday papers. The small, magazine-like paper which is sold on Sunday is merely a pictorial affair with a resume of the week's happenings, printed on Saturday.

"A thing which has always confused me was the value of English coins and money. Now that I have them straightened out I wonder if it won't be profitable to pass this information on to you? The basis of British money is the shilling, worth, at par, 24.3 cents in our money. For practical purposes call it 25 cents.

How to Figure It

"This divided by 12, or about 2 cents, is their 'penny,' which is a large, copper coin. They also issue a smaller copper, or half-penny called 'haypenny.' For a penny and a half they say '3 haypence'; two pennies is 'tuppence,' 3 is 'thrippence' and for this amount they have a silver coin smaller than our dime.

"The next coin is a silver 'sixpence' (this being half a shilling) and the next a shilling, about the size of our quarter. Two shillings is the next size, called a 'florin' and a two and a half shilling piece is stamped 'half crown.'

"There is no coin for the 'crown.'—It has long ceased to be coined. These are all the coins in use. A paper '10 shillings' and the 'pound,' 20 shillings, are smaller and of poorer quality than our currency.

"A 'guinea,' is 21 shillings. It is not coined now but is frequently designated as a lawyer's or doctor's fee. The pound is printed 'L,' the shilling 'S'. A sign reading 4-6 means 4 shillings, six pence. At the present rate of exchange the pound is worth about $4.57 in our money.

Distance by Minutes

"Distances here are quoted in 'minutes' instead of blocks or miles. I am not able to figure it out, however, because '5 minute walk' with them will mean from half a mile to a mile.

"I am not going to try to tell you anything about London. It is too big a subject. A great mass of 7,000,000 people, packed tightly into one city, contains too many lights and shadows for me to try to give you my impressions of them.

"Of course, we have seen some of the old churches, palaces, jewels, towers, government buildings and historical places. There is enough to be seen here profitably to occupy months, so we have only skimmed a little of it in our week's stay.

"We move to Paris tomorrow and after some days there our route takes us to Belgium, Holland and Germany. We expect to see more of France on our way back.

"Mail sent at once will probably reach us at Berlin, in care of the American Express Company."

Mr. Kirk's impressions of Paris will be given in his next letter.

Fiery Cross Flaunts Near Home of Priest

POMEROY, Ohio, Sept. 28.—Much excitement was caused here by the firing of several heavy shots and the burning of a fiery cross in front of the home of the local Catholic priest. Three men were seen leaving in a machine just after the shots were fired.

Seattle's Red Labor Fight Aired Again

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 28.—Affairs of the central labor council of Seattle, long a troubled area in the American Federation of Labor, was the chief concern of the federation executive committee here today.

Late today or some time tomorrow the executive committee was to sit in closed session with Seattle representatives with the idea of learning the whole truth about the central council's alleged activities with the "reds" of Russia.

Did Hulett M. Wells attend the Moscow convention over two years ago as a delegate from the central labor council of Seattle? Or did he, as the council contends, merely go as an "observer"? If he went as an "observer," was this "title" appended simply as a subterfuge to mask his real representation as a duly qualified delegate from Seattle?

The crux of the situation is said to center in the answer to these questions. Charles W. Doyle, former secretary, and Phil J. Pearl, delegate from the barbers' union, are to appear before the committee with records of Seattle council proceedings of the past three years.

Blackmail of Mickey and Gloria Plotted

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28—With a sheaf of threatening letters in his possession, backed by the statements of the asserted victims, District Attorney Asa Keyes was today expected to present to the grand jury evidence of an alleged blackmail scheme to extort money from Marshall Neilan, motion picture director; Gloria Swanson, film luminary and Mrs. Adeline L. Burns, Miss Swanson's mother.

A former employe of Mrs. Burns, who was scheduled to be named administrator of her late husband's estate, was declared to have planned the huge blackmailing scheme. This man, it is contended, demanded that Mrs. Burns procure him a remunerative position, and also threatened a statement relating to the asserted friendship of Neilan and Miss Swanson unless the motion picture man paid a considerable sum of money.

Purchase of Canada Wheat Stirs Farmers

GRAND FORKS, N. D., Sept. 28.—The management of the state-owned and operated flour mill, established by the Non-Partisan league administration several years ago but now operated by an anti-Non-Partisan administration, is the target of statewide criticism of farmers, who by letters and telegrams are protesting the purchase by the mill of 50,000 bushels of Canadian wheat, on which a duty of thirty cents a bushel was paid.

Seven hundred smoke clouds are blown by a man in smoking a pipe of average size.

Freak Apple Cotton May Thwart Weevil

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 28.—Former King Cotton, now dethroned by the boll weevil, has designed to mix his blood with the lowly apple and the interesing progeny of the two have been displayed in Birmingham.

An apple tree, which had been surrounded by cotton plants for several years, this year bore three apples that were shaped like cotton bolls and had their fruit arranged in cotton boll formation, a faithful reproducion of the cotton boll except it was apple instead of cotton.

Cotton pickers are now hoping D. M. Henderson, of Cleveland, Ala., upon whose farm the fruit was grown, will now produce a brand of cotton fashioned after the apple, with the cotton growing upon a stem instead of in a boll, simplifying the picking process.

Train Hits Ambulance Bearing Injured Man

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Sept. 28.—John Roach is at the University hospital here, uninjured, collecting his nerves before taking another chance with the daily rush of business.

Roach started out the day by falling out of a third-story window. He was dazed but suffered no injuries other than minor bruises.

En route to the hospital the ambulance was struck by a train at a railroaod crossing. The car struck the side of the train as the driver swerved lengthwise to escape the crash. The ambulance overturned, scrambling Roach, with the stretcher and paraphernalia inside the car. No bones were broken or other injuries apparent.

BANANA SONG PROPHETIC

"Yes, we have no bananas," is not so popular in Australia as in the United States and England. Almost coincident with the arrival of the song there it was found that the disease, "bunchy top" was doing damage to the fruit totaling hundreds of thousands of pounds sterling. A fund of £4,500 is being raised to enable the Bureau of Science and Industry to make an investigation and find a cure before the entire crop is destroyed.

FUTURISTIC IDEAS

Putting the futurist art to use in this country is being considered in the investigation of having the "Catalonian" style of architecture in apartments. The idea is employed in southern Europe. The twisting walls, which bulge out over each floor, serve as a sun and rain shield for the windows below. The roof is of many colors.

Poverty produces great men for the same reason that a fat vacationist sprints nobly when a Star.

TITLE FOR SOLONS

Do you know the meaning of the letters T. D., now frequently appearing in the cable news from Ireland and England? They mean in Ireland what M. P. means in England or M. C. means in America and they stand for Teachta Dala, or "a deputy of the Dail," or Irish parliament.

On the rock bottom the swiftest whirlpool will spend its strength.

LONDON BOBBY PASSES

Exit the "Bobby," so courteous, so ready, so stolid, so safe!

Yet it is said that this old type of perfect policeman is—imperfect. He is going, disappearing, because he isn't fit to deal with modern traffic problems. A "more vigilant" type is replacing the old. It isn't enough to stand and direct, he must also jump and twist and see on both sides of his head.

SLEEPING SICKNESS

Returning home from the seaside, a boy named Roby, aged 14, of Brierfield, Lancashire, Eng., fell into a sleep which lasted until he died six days later from "sleepy sickness," as it is called here. The death was reported recently, and none from the disease has followed as far as known.

Buy Your Tires from a Firestone DEALER

At the Latest Prices—The Lowest in History

You will find the Firestone Dealer one of the stable business men of your community. He offers a clean, fresh stock, backed by a well organized service. He wants you as a permanent customer.

That is the reason he sells Firestone tires. He knows and has plenty of proof that they are the best tires on the market. He can give you the greatest value and thereby retain your trade for years.

Every day you find new proof of this unequalled value. On the 15th of this month, Firestone Tires set two new dirt track records at Syracuse when Tommy Milton slid around four turns at every mile and covered the 100 miles in 75 minutes, 33 hundredths seconds. He also established a new world's record for one mile by covering it in 42 and 28 hundredths seconds. The next four cars to finish were also equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords. Each one of them went the entire race without a stop. This and every other important race this year was won on Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords and Steam-Welded Tubes. Such performance gives you conclusive proof of their strength and durability.

Not only do race drivers use Firestone Tires as protection to their lives and the surest way to victory, but the largest tire buyers in the world insist on and buy Firestone Tires for economy and service. These buyers include the leading car manufacturers, the biggest commercial car operators and the taxicab and motorbus operators. 57,639,714 tire miles were sold to taxicab and motorbus operators in the month of August.

Think this over. You cannot afford to accept anything less than Firestone service and economy. You can buy this service and economy from any of the dealers listed below.

Delegates Leave for Scouts' Conference

The five delegates who will represent the Verdugo Hills Boy Scout council at the Older Scouts' conference at Santa Barbara, September 28, 29 and 30, left the city at 1 o'clock today, with Francis J. W. Henry of 224 West Arden avenue. Mr. Henry will be the constant companion and counsellor to the scouts and will live right at camp with them during their stay at the conference.

The delegates were full of high spirits and were fully determined to put Glendale on the map as far as the conference is concerned.

Another member was added to the delegation in the person of Arthur Barton, senior patrol leader of Glendale Troop No. 2. The decision of the Court of Honor was so close between the five scouts that it was finally decided to make it unanimous.

Plans for Community Chest Are Outlined

Preliminary plans for the organization of the Community Chest were submitted to the representatives of various organizations forming the temporary committee at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms this morning. These plans provide for the formation of a permanent organization, to be composed of representatives of all civic, charitable and welfare bodies in Glendale and the number of officers and their duties.

The plans will be presented to the entire committee at a meeting to be held next Thursday night. October 4, when it is hoped that the permanent organization will be formed and the work of the Community Chest may be launched.

Governors' Confab on Dry Law Undecided

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28. — President Coolidge today put it up to the governors of the several states for themselves when they will come to Washington for a conference on prohibition and other law enforcement problems.

The president sent a telegram to Miles Riley, secretary of the state governors' conference at Madison, Wis., asking to state what date would be suitable for the meeting here. The governors meet in West Baden, Ind., on October 7.

Distributors to Pay Gasoline Tax, Ruling

A ruling received from Washington yesterday by Collector of Internal Revenue Rex Goodcell outlines the policy of the government regarding the application of the income tax laws to deductions from income of gasoline taxes imposed by the various states. The ruling was based on the new gasoline tax of the state of Colorado.

The decision holds that under the revenue act of 1921 the gasoline tax levied by the State of Colorado as a good-roads tax is assessed against and collected from the distributors of the fuel rather than the consumers. The tax, therefore, is deductible by the distributors. In cases, however, where distributors add the tax to the cost of the fuel or treat it as a business expense, it should not be included in the deduction for the taxes paid but should be deducted as a business expense or as a part of the cost of the fuel. It follows that purchasers of the fuel for business purposes may include in the cost of the fuel to them any addition to the price made by the distributor to cover the tax, but a similar deduction may not be claimed to taxpayers purchasing the fuel for other purposes.

FROST GOES DEEP

CHRISTIANA, Norway, Sept. 28.—The soil of Spitzenbergen the desolate island in the Arctic ocean which has come into prominence since the war because of its mineral deposits, has been found to be frozen to a depth of 1,000 feet. A temperature of just freezing has been found in a mine 1,000 feet in depth. In summer the soil thaws to a depth of about two feet. Building is difficult unless the foundations are placed well below the extent to which the thaw takes effect.

SUNDAY IN OCEANICA

Sunday pleasures are being discussed in Australia and New Zealand. Baseball games have been permitted on that day for a short time on trial and are finding favor, and the Musicians' Union of Australia recently voted in favor of Sunday entertainments. Other tests of the desire for and effect of open Sunday will soon be made.

Pastor Warns Wives to Assist Husbands

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Sept. 28.—"Don't be extravagant. Remember the husband usually works hard for every dollar he brings home. See that it is spent wisely," admonished Rev. August H. Knipping, pastor of St. Paul's Evangelical church here, sermonizing on the topic, "Don'ts for Married Women."

"Don't be untidy about your person or home," Rev. Dr. Knipping continued. "Let your social clubs, bridge parties and lodges get along without you if, by attending these functions, your home must suffer. Every man who supports his wife has a right to expect that she perform her duties in the home.

"Don't be forever nagging, scolding and complaining. If you have problems try to solve them yourself, for few husbands know anything about household affairs.

"Keep your troubles from your neighbors, and, above all, do not run to your mother with them.

"If you wish to come as you please, go as you please and do as you please; if you do not wish to live a restricted life, if you cannot make sacrifices, do not marry."

'Fairy Prince' Wooer Failure as Husband

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Before her marriage David Nashalman was to his bride-to-be a variable fairy prince from whose generous hands dripped limousines, silks, diamonds, money and apartment buildings, all for her.

After they were united, she charges in her suit for separate maintenance, her rosy dreams turned to dull realities in which her penurious husband and, his equally penurious mother made life miserable for her, fulfilling none of his promises and wrangling with her because she did not conserve electric light more.

PARKS IN CEMETERY

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 28.—Unused to cities that do not provide camp sites for motor tourists, David Miller, of Oakland, Cal., chose an abandoned cemetery here as an all-night resting place. Two policemen arrested him and he was fined $13.50 for disorderly conduct.

Italy has about 2,200 motion picture theatres and 4,000 privately owned halls where films are occasionally shown.

FIREBUG FIRES JAIL

WARSAW, Ind., Sept. 28. — Steve Kosko, who was held in jail here on a charge of being a firebug, set fire to the jail. His bed was burned, but the blaze was extinguished before other damage was done. Kosko claimed the jail fire was accidental and he was released when efforts to connect him with recent disastrous fires in the county failed.

Park Avenue Opening Protests Are Denied

Protest against the opening of Park avenue between Glendale avenue and Adams street was ignored last night by the City Council.

Stating that the eastern extension of Park avenue would run directly through their property, written protests against the proceedings were filed by Mrs. C. M. Hall of 1033 South Boynton street and John L. Doran of 1032 South Boynton street. They called attention to the fact that the removal of their homes will be necessary if this street is put through.

The total frontage involved is 5800 feet and the frontage held by the protestants is 1004 feet, or 17.3 per cent. In view of this ratio, City Engineer Ben F. Dupuy recommended that the protests be denied.

Donald Walker, Oxy Graduate, in China

Donald Walker, member of the Oxy class of 1923, who left for China and Hangchow Christian college August 14 has arrived at that institution and will immediately take up his duties there. He was scheduled to leave August 9, on the President Wilson from San Francisco, but an oil fire caused damages which necessitated the postponement of his trip until later.

Fear was felt for his safety in the earthquake in Japan, but it is learned that the boat Mr. Walker was on left Japan twenty-four hours before the dreadful catastrophe occurred.

Lutherans of Missouri Synod Change Name

Rev. Henry O. Kringel, pastor of the Concordia Evangelical Lutheran church, announces that a meeting of the congregation last night it was decided to change the name of the church to Zion Evangelical Lutheran church (Missouri Synod).

The young people of the Walther society of the church enjoyed an outing last night at Oakmont. There were twenty-two young people present.

Quick Results From News Advertising

J. W. Usilton, 201 North Brand boulevard, believes in the pulling power of classified advertising in The Glendale Evening News columns.

Yesterday Mr. Usilton inserted an advertisement in the Help Wanted columns, seeking a caretaker for a ranch in Bouquet canyon. He ordered the ad to be run for three insertions, but early this morning he phoned this office, ordering the two remaining insertions cancelled.

From the minute the newsboys struck the street with yesterday's issue of The Glendale Evening News, Mr. Usilton was besieged with applicants for the position, and he did not have a minute's peace from then until he went to bed last night.

Early this morning another string of candidates were waiting for Mr. Usilton at his office, and from the number of applicants he declared that he could have filled the position a dozen times over with men who measured up to his requirements.

The moral, of course, is "Advertise in The Glendale Evening News."

State Official Is Marooned by Storm

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 28.—His return to civilization temporarily barred by swollen streams and snow-bound roads, Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan has been forced to seek refuge at an abandoned mine in the Sierra Nevada mountains in Yuba county.

Jordan's companion on the trip, Judge J. R. Pullen of the superior court of this county, escaped from the storm-swept country and returned to this city Thursday. He was forced to abandon his automobile and made his way to Forest City on foot. Jordan and Pullen, accompanied by an Indian guide, started out on a fishing trip on the west fork of the Yuba river early last week before the storm set in.

Minnesota Imposes Alfalfa Quarantine

ST. PAUL, Sept. 28.—N. J. Holmberg, state commissioner of agriculture, has announced that his department had established a quarantine against the shipping of alfalfa hay into Minnesota from the states of Utah and Wyoming and sections of Idaho, Colorado, California and Oregon, or wherever the alfalfa weevil has been infesting fields. The order forbids the importation of alfalfa hay and other hay of all kinds, and certain straws which have been grown or stored in the infested districts. This includes the use of all such as packing material or for any other purpose.

Grand Jury Probing Mrs. Stokes' Charges

CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—Charges of conspiracy and perjury made by Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes in connection with an alleged plot by W. E. D. Stokes, New York multi-millionaire, to defame her character, are being thoroughly probed here by the grand jury.

Mrs. Millie Phillips, a hair dresser, and Richard F. Westbrooks, discharged assistant state's attorney, were the first called.

LLOYD-GEORGE TALKS

LONDON, Sept. 28.—"I go to America neither as a missionary nor a bootlegger, but simply to see how America is handling her problems," said ex-Premier Lloyd George today, in addressing the American society at a luncheon. His talk concerned his forthcoming visit to the states.

Memory of Daring Explorer Will Be Honored at Seven-day Fete

By Central Press Association

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 28.—In 1679 the French explorer, Robert Chevalier de LaSalle, landed a short distance north of the present site of South Bend, and after parleys with the Indians started across the portage to the Kankakee river on his way southwest to the Mississippi and the gulf.

In 1823 Alexis Coquillard, a family name now very familiar in this part of the central west, established a fur trading post on the bank of the St. Joseph river near what is now the northwest corner of Michigan street, or the Dixie highway and LaSalle avenue.

From that Coquillard fur trading post of 1823 South Bend, then called Southhold, has grown to a manufacturing and mercantile city of 100,000 population and has become the workshop and the purchasing center of several hundred thousand people in the fertile St. Joseph valley.

City to Celebrate

And these ten years of the prosperity and physical growth of South Bend are not to pass without notice, for the city is now preparing for its 100th anniversary. The celebration will continue a week, beginning September 30.

This celebration will be held under the auspices of some of South Bend's most prominent business men who have organized under the laws of Indiana the South Bend Centennial Association. George B. Beitner, prominent retired business man and native son, is the director general. On the board of directors are such men as Mayor Eli F. Seebirt, talked of for governor of Indiana; J. D. Oliver, president of the Oliver Chilled Plow Works; A. R. Erskine, president of the Studebaker corporation; Rev. Matthew Walsh, president of the University of Notre Dame; Joseph A. Coquillard, banker and descendant of that Alexis Coquillard who started the fur trading post; F. A. Miller, editor of The Tribune, which suggested the centennial celebration, and the oldest daily in northern Indiana; J. C. Birdsell, president of the Birdsell Manufacturing Company, and others well known in the business world.

Old Home Week

The home-coming feature is being emphasized. South Bend hopes for the return of every former resident, no matter where living.

There will be a gorgeous display of fireworks in Leeper park. This display is to be unusual and will probably depict in colored fires historical events in the progress of this section of America.

The memory of LaSalle will be honored by the Daughters of the American Revolution. A great native boulder bearing a beautiful bronze tablet will be dedicated with fitting ceremonies. It will be placed on the west side of the Portage highway just outside the city limits and near the point where LaSalle left the St. Joseph river to portage to the Kankakee.

Sid Grauman Quits L. A. Theatre Field

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28.—Sid Grauman, theatrical magnate and one of the best known theatre managers in the west, will retire within the next thirty days from the active management of the three downtown theatres here which bear his name, it has been authoritatively learned here.

The option taken some time ago by the Paramount Pictures corporation expires in another month, and it was learned that the papers will be executed immediately.

Persistent rumors here are that Grauman will enter the field of film production, as he is said to have entertained that desire for some time.

Beware of the sunshine that replaces unhealthy germs with the germ of laziness.

Y. M. C. A. Leaders Plan Club for Young Boys

In planning for the organization of Glendale boys, 11 to 14 years of age, into the Pioneer Notchers club of the Y. M. C. A., a group of leaders met for dinner and conference last night at the Rex C. Kelley home at 416 East Lorraine street.

Guests of Mr. Kelley were J. A. Grosser, Lorren Schlotzhauer, F. T. Taylor, J. P. McMaster, Howard Rettberg, Harry Marple, Thomas Ehrhart, of Glendale, and E. B. Thomas and T. E. Stevenson of Burbank.

This Notchers club is organized on the four-square principles of mental, spiritual, physical and service development of the boy. In developing the organization and the members, these leaders each have charge of a group of boys, who are tested in interesting ways along these four-square ideals.

The groups are to begin work next week, and the leaders are to meet once each month for conference.

J. J. Nesom Subscriber to News Since Start

It takes a "Santy Anner," as the natives say, to stir up the news.

The wind sure did blow Wednesday, so much so that The Glendale Evening News carrier boys could hardly "throw their papers."

As it was, J. J. Nesom of 125 West Elk avenue missed his—temporarily.

Calling at the office Mr. Nesom stated he has not missed a copy of The Glendale Evening News ever since it was established over eighteen years ago.

Mr. Nesom formerly was in the drug business at the corner of Broadway and Brand boulevard, where A. G. Spohr now has the store. He also conducted the drug store at the corner of Sixth and Hill streets, Los Angeles, and more recently has devoted his time to his property holdings in Glendale.

Arizona Asks Water From Colorado River

PHOENIX, Ariz., Sept. 28.—State Senator Fred T. Colter, as president of the Arizona high line reclamation association and for and on behalf of the state of Arizona, has completed filings with the state water commissioner, calling for the diversion of 20,000 second feet of water from the Colorado river by the construction of dams at the Spencer canyon and Glen canyon power dam sites.

Senator Colter is a member of Governor Hunt's general conference committee, a sub-committee of which is now in Washington incident to the presentation of an Arizona plan of river development to the federal power commission, and his action is based on a report of the engineering party sent out by Governor Hunt to determine the feasibility of a high line canal that would utilize practically the entire flow of the Colorado river for reclamation purposes in Arizona.

Maryland Avenue to Be Six Feet Wider

Maryland avenue between Wilson avenue and Broadway is to be widened six feet in order to accommodate traffic. Permission to move the curbs on this street back three feet on either side of the street was granted last night by the City Council.

Upon motion of Councilman C. E. Kimlin, City Attorney Ray L. Morrow and City Engineer Ben F. Dupuy were instructed to prepare the necessary proceedings.

THEATRES

THE GLENDALE

"Out of Luck," with Hoot Gibson, shows at the Glendale Theatre today and tomorrow. The story isn't just a series of smiles and chuckles. It's hilarious laughter.

Hoot is funnier trying to master a battleship than he ever was on a mustang. He becomes a gob in the U. S. navy because of a little muss-up with his prospective father-in-law. He hasn't been in the navy a week when he learns he has been forgiven by the old man. But when he asks the captain to transfer him from the briny to the sage, that kind-hearted individual agrees to—in four years.

So there is Hoot Gibson, marooned on a battleship for forty-eight months without even a lasso. What he does to amuse himself aboard ship and enliven the lives of his fellow gobs makes an uproarious film. You will want to see it.

THE GATEWAY

Latin atmosphere predominates in "The Bright Shawl," the Joseph Hergesheimer story that has now reached the screen with Richard Barthelmess in the stellar role, a young American enmeshed in the Cuban revolution, and Dorothy Gish opposite him, as a Spanish dancer.

The picture, which is distributed by First National, was made by John S. Robertson, director of "Sentimental Tommy" and "Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde." President Alfredo Zayas of Cuba lent every co-operation to the troupe making the film. It is, therefore, regarded as an authentic historical film.

Edmund Goulding, himself the author of "Fury," a best-seller, wrote the scenario for "The Bright Shawl," having previously written several of Dick Barthelmess' successes.

In addition to Dick and Dorothy, the film version of the popular Hergesheimer story contains a number of other noted players.

XANDU ZANTIPPE LIKE HIS FATHER

Professor Discusses Sewer, and Blondes; Throws Dishes With Eclat

Professor Xavius Zantippe, returning with Mrs. Zantippe from a week's vacation yesterday in Hueneme (pronounced Why-kneeme?), was met at the new Southern Pacific station at the foot of Cerritos avenue, and as he detrained from the Santa Barbara local was naively asked his opinion of the forthcoming sewer.

"Well," said Professor Zantippe, drawing himself up to his full five feet of dignity, "it is indeed gratifying to have one's efforts rewarded at last. I have devoted the very best of myself to this matter. For over a year I have exerted every effort to this happy consummation that has now been consumed."

"But, but," stammered the poor reporter, "we all thought Mayor Spencer Robinson and the councilmen——"

"Yes, yes," peevishly interrupted Professor Zantippe, "I know, I know. They helped, of course, in their way, but it was I, I who, who——"

Tells of Next Move

"Of course, to be sure," agreed the reporter. "And now that you have brought the sewer to Glendale, Professor, what is your next move."

"Move," "Why, bring Glendale to the sewer, to be sure!"

That's Professor Xavius Zantippe, A.B., C.D., E.F.G., H.I., J.K.L.M. Quick as a flash with his rare wit, always ready to turn a joke and never stopping to take one. A whimsical, delicious personality, to be sure—but not too sure.

Professor and Mrs. Zantippe have been having a little trouble with little Xandu, their first born. He is bright enough, it seems, but won't learn. His teacher sent him home with a note to his mother, the other day. It seems he had done something with the ink well. At any rate, the little blonde in front of him suddenly found herself transformed into a dripping brunette. Xandu said it slipped. At any rate, he was sent home.

"He takes after his father,"

House Hunting in Glendale Always Big Problem, Says Old Timer's Yarn Today

By OLD TIMER
Of The Evening News Staff

A RECENT article in the Development Section of The Glendale Evening News, presenting the housing problem, states that the demand for houses in Glendale grows acute, that many buildings will be needed to house the newcomers to this city. This is not a new condition, but has existed since transportation by trolley and auto has made Glendale accessible.

With the exception of a very few intervals the demand has always exceeded the supply. Even in the early days of which Old Timer is given to writing, the newcomers experienced the greatest difficulty in locating themselves.

Humor in Predicaments

Illustrative of this are a number of somewhat humorous situations occurring in the past.

An incident of this character was related to Old Timer the other day by a resident of our city who came to Glendale about seventeen years ago with the intention of improving or rather restoring an old orange grove which they had acquired on Sixth street now Colorado boulevard. To find shelter until they could build was the problem.

They literally, went from door to door, but they had two children and accommodations were so scarce that landlords could be choosers and they had about given up and were leaving for Los Angeles, when seeing a "For Rent" sign on a small cottage on Third street, (Wilson avenue) where the Intermediate school now stands, the so-called weaker member of the family instructed her husband to go ahead with their offspring while she investigated.

So discouraged she was that when a kindly faced old lady opened the door and answered affirmatively the question as to whether the cottage was for rent, she, almost in tears confessed the heinousness of having two children and incoherently told the prospective landlady that she loved them and did not want to kill them but that she might have to chloroform them to satisfy the hard hearted landlords.

To her surprise and relief the kindly faced old lady with the soft gray hair and pleasant smile whom every one in the early days called "Auntie Snow" exclaimed:

"Why bless me! I wish you had a dozen, I love children."

Another Experience

The experience of Old Timer at a slightly earlier period was not so tragic, but the situation was equally trying. Selling the city property and purchasing a lot in Glendale made it incumbent to find temporary shelter as immediate possession was demanded.

One contingent of the family was domiciled in a three-room apartment on "E" (Everett) street between what is now Broadway and Wilson, known in those days as Third and Fourth street, in the many-winged house

GLENDALE SCORES IN PHONE GROWTH

Comparative Figures Provide Proof of Southland's Population

Glendale scores again in the reports of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company's records, according to a copy of the current Pacific Telephone magazine received here today by Fred Deal, local manager.

Among the five cities having 5,000 to 10,000 subscribers, Glendale stands first with 14.27 increase so far this year. In number of new phones installed it ranks between Fresno and Sacramento.

Alhambra also shows great growth, as does San Pedro and Fullerton in Southern California. Several northern cities also show increases, but these are due to consolidations, Mr. Deal states.

Other Local Records

In the Glendale district Lankershim appears with 38.63 per cent increase, the highest record of any growing office, while Burbank shows 18.94 per cent and Van Nuys 15.25 per cent.

Many Washington and Oregon cities show losses, Corvallis being the hardest hit. Coalinga, in California, also is suffering from an exodus, it would appear, with a 7.7 loss in stations.

Spokane and Yakima, Wash., are among the larger cities showing they are dwindling away. It is interesting to note the race between Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The southern metropolis now has 199,178 telephones, compared with the bay city's 180,180.

TEACHERS FROLIC BROOKSIDE PARK

Basket Supper This Evening Will Be Enjoyed by High School Staff

Glendale Union High School Teachers' club late this afternoon will enjoy its annual frolic and basket supper at Brookside Park, Pasadena.

New teachers, in whose honor the party is being given and who will provide the entertainment, are Miss Florence Ahl of 1001 Orange Grove avenue, Miss Beulah Woods of 114 North Kenwood street; Mrs. Madge Stephenson of 620 North Maryland avenue, Miss Eleanor Plaw of 602 North Orange street, Miss Ida Wilshire of 120 West Eulalia street, Miss Merle McGrath of 326 East Colorado street, Miss Mary Brownrigg of 326 East Colorado street, Miss Ernestine Kinney of Los Angeles, Mrs. Juanita Courtenaye of 1137 Stanley avenue, Miss Hazel Allin of Pasadena, Miss Jeanette Kussart of 137 South Isabel street, Miss Katherine Lewis of 221 Burchett street.

Herman Wibe of 438 Burchett street, John E. Kienle of 223 South Brand boulevard, Joseph Wirt of North Glendale, Ruford Blair of 121 South Kenwood street, and Park Turrill of 1309 Orange Grove avenue.

Miss Mary Hairgrove is chairman of the social committee. Other members are Miss Beatrice Helmer, Miss Helen Goldthwaite, Miss Lillian E. Shattuck, Miss Dorothy Gilson, Morgan N. Smith, Walter Gorman, Paul Webb and Eugene Wolfe.

Charles Everett Stowe Guest Of Famous Wentworths In Eagle Rock

By H. THOMPSON RICH
Of The Evening News Staff.

Charles Everett Stowe, recently the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Wentworth, 2334 West Palm avenue, Eagle Rock, is the only living son of Harriet Beecher Stowe, world-famous author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

He has now returned to his home in Redlands, where he resides with his wife. He vividly recollects the days when his mother produced the "greatest seller" America has ever had.

Mr. Stowe is 82 years old. Born in 1841, he grew to manhood during the troublous years that culminated in the Civil War. Under this influence his mother produced an enduring American classic. It made of the son a minister and scholar.

Tells Anecdotes

For years he traveled continental Europe. It was in Rome a decade later that he met once more William Adams Wentworth Dresser, classmate at Amherst College. Mr. Dresser, who is related to the Wentworth family, is still a guest with them at the above address in Eagle Rock. He tells many anecdotes of his old friend, Charles Everett Stowe, in Redlands.

Mr. Dresser is a journalist, no longer active. He makes his home at the University Club, Los Angeles. For many years he wrote for such publications as Collier's Weekly, the Youth's Companion and the Christian Herald. He pictures Mr. Stowe as an idealistic, cultured old gentleman such as only New England can produce.

Traces Genealogy

The Wentworths have a daughter, Lucille, just 11 years old. When Mr. Stowe and Mr. Dresser returned from Boston two weeks ago, where they had been attending the annual meeting of the Mayflower Society and of the Sons of the American Revolution, Mr. Stowe brought back little Lucille a most interesting book, "The Romance of Old New England Roof-Trees," by Mary C. Crawford.

This book tells intimate stories of many of the old settlers and is profusely illustrated. One of the illustrations shows the original Governor Wentworth house at Portsmouth, N. H. The present Wentworths are descendants of this line. Governor Wentworth

Members' Wives Guests at Kiwanis Luncheon

Following out a plan that had been adopted by the officials of the Kiwanis club, many of the members brought their wives to the luncheon at the Tuesday Afternoon club today, the object being to show the women how the business of the Kiwanis is conducted and to give them an idea of the work that is being done by the club.

Bishop Stevens of Los Angeles was the principal speaker on the program, taking for his subject "True and False Optimism," and another important feature of the entertainment was the singing of Mrs. John D. Cole, 122 West Arden avenue. An attendance prize was given by Dr. John Anderson, and other special prizes were awarded to several of the women who attended the luncheon.

Gladys Gilman Named Secretary of Juniors

Miss Gladys Gilman was elected secretary of the junior class of 1925, in a class meeting held yesterday afternoon at the high school. Alice Hill was elected to serve in that capacity last year, but she moved to Chicago and this necessitated a re-election.

Gladys has shown her ability in many ways since she has attended Glendale Union High school, and she will be well fitted to take the minutes of her class meetings.

A sophomore class meeting was also held yesterday afternoon for the purpose of organizing for the coming school year.

GLENDALE EVENING NEWS WILL PUBLISH BOOSTER DIRECTORY

A Classified Business Directory and Glendale Booster Book is now being compiled by The Evening News. It is a co-operative work undertaken with the object of providing a convenient reference to the business, professional people and institutions of Glendale.

The first publication will be made in the columns of The Evening News. The entire work will then be issued in book form, classified and alphabetically arranged so that the information can be had at a glance. The Booster Directory books will be given a general FREE distribution. Then a supply will be left at the various information bureaus to be given out FREE.

The Glendale Chamber of Commerce has furnished the Evening News with valuable data in regard to Glendale, its industries and possibilities, which, with other facts relative to points of interest, will be included in the Booster Directory.

A nominal listing charge is made for including your card in this representative work. No personal solicitation will be attempted, but an invitation will be extended by telephone to cooperate with The Evening News in getting out this work. If interested, call Directory Department—Phone Glendale 132, Station 11.

'PETTICOAT LANE' NIGH PERFECTION

Wealth of Talent Among De Molay's Friends in Benefit Play

By RALPH A. LYND
Of The Evening News Staff

Rehearsals for the presentation of "Petticoat Lane," the musical comedy that is to be shown at the Tuesday Afternoon Club auditorium on Monday and Tuesday, October 1 and 2, for the benefit of the Glendale Order of De Molay, have progressed so far under the direction of Lucien Denni that it is possible now to predict that the play will score a decided success.

From the wealth of talent at his disposal Mr. Denni has been able to develop a cast that is not only letter perfect, but that is also keenly imbued with the dramatic and artistic possibilities of the piece, and he is confident that the performance will rank with anything that has ever been presented in Glendale.

Eighty Players in Cast

The entire cast includes eighty players, of whom twenty-three play important roles, the remainder being in the ensemble numbers. The orchestra also has been brought to a high pitch of perfection.

What is described as one of the most wonderful displays of costumes ever seen on a local stage will be used in the fashion revue which forms one of the leading parts of the play.

Mrs. Max Green, 528 North Maryland street, will lead the fashion parade, the costumes for which have been selected from the stock of Pendroy's Department Store.

Draperies of exotic tone have been loaned by Jensen's Egyptian Village, and a street scene has been loaned by Manager Albright of a local theatre.

New Song By Mr. Denni

Another feature that will inject dash and sparkle into the show will be the rendering of Mr. Denni's latest composition, "Mem-

ADVENTIST HEADS TO ATTEND MEET

Rev. J. L. McElhany Will Lead Coast Delegation to World Conference

Six local conferences, the union conference, three sanitariums, a publishing house, and a mission station, will send representatives from the Pacific coast to the World's General Conference convention of Seventh Day Adventists, which will be held in Milwaukee, Wis., October 8 to 18. The delegation will be headed by Rev. J. L. McElhany, of Glendale, president of the Pacific Union conference.

Other conference presidents include: Revs. A. R. Sandborn, of Phœnix, president of the Arizona conference; G. A. Roberts, of Oakland, president of the California conference; E. L. Neff, of Fresno, president of the Central California conference; V. E. Peugh, of Reno, president of the Nevada conference; Clarence Santee, of Lodi, president of the Northern California conference; J. J. Nethery of Riverside, president of the Southeastern California conference; W. M. Adams, of Los Angeles, president of the Southern California conference, and J. A. Neilsen, of Ogden, superintendent of the Utah mission.

There will also be representatives from the denominational sanitariums located at National City, Glendale, St. Helena, and the hospital in Los Angeles. The publishing house at Mountain View will also send delegates, and thus the Pacific coast will be prominently represented. The conference presidents will also attend a presidents' convention in the same city, which will begin on October 5

Church Leaders Meet

The general conference convention will be to the Adventists what a conclave of the board of bishops is to the Methodist or Episcopal denomination. Plans will be made for the advancement of the church in foreign countries; appropriations amounting to several million dollars will be made, and the work in the publishing, educational, medical, home missionary, Sabbath school, religious liberty and young people's departments will be strengthened.

Practically every leader from the administrative offices in Washington, D. C., will be present, together with every union conference president, and every local conference president in North America. Every state in this country and every province in Canada will be represented, also Mexico, Central America, South America and Europe. It is the most important annual convention held by the denomination, as every part of the world-wide missionary program of the church is considered.

Rev. W. A. Spicer, president of the general conference, is now on his way back from Europe, to be chairman of the convention.

AUTUMN LEAVES IN WEBB WINDOW

Fall Fashion Display Given Attractive Setting by Department Store

Graceful branches bearing reddish-brown autumn leaves furnish the background for an attractive fall fashion window display at the H. S. Webb Company store on North Brand boulevard.

Dame Fashion has more than favored Mother Nature this season in selecting as predominating colors shades of brown and other colors standing out vividly in garden and field during the fall months.

Brown is one of the most desirable colors for the smart wardrobe this fall and winter, and Dale Ludwig, window decorator at the Webb store, has featured it in the present window display.

The autumn leaf background has attracted the eye of everyone who has passed the Webb store, and compliments have been unanimous on the display of stylish, beautifully fashioned gowns, coats and hats. In addition, there is a splendid showing of gloves, shoes, furs, perfumes and costume jewelry.

SUNLAND

$2000 BOND ISSUE ASKED BY SCHOOL

Election in Monte Vista to Be Held October 20, Board Announces

An election will be held on October 20 by the Monte Vista school district for the purpose of voting on a bond issue.

The trustees desire to issue four $500 bonds to create a reserve and emergency fund. This fund would be used to pay outstanding debts, buy additional school furniture and equipment for general improvement and expansion.

Two bonds will run for a period of 18 years and two for 19 years, bearing interest at the rate of 5½ per cent, payable annually.

The election will be held at the schoolhouse. The trustees, C. C. Campbell, Rudolph Henry and P. Bailey have appointed the following election officials: Cornelius Johnson, inspector; Mrs. Nina McDonald and Mrs. Clara N. Shuett, judges.

Establishes Studio

Mrs. Juanita Causey, sculptress, recently of Chicago and Los Angeles, has established her home and studio on Michigan avenue in Sunland. She has become a member of the Fine Arts Guild of Tujunga Valley and will soon have some of her work on exhibit at the studio in Tujunga. Mrs. Causey specializes in fountain figures.

TUJUNGA

FINE ARTS GUILD INCLUDES MUSIC

Artists and Authors Will Permit Musicians in Organization

Reorganization has been effected in the Artists' and Authors' Guild of Tujunga valley to allow it to embrace music in its scope as well as the other arts.

In future the club will be known as the Fine Arts Guild of Tujunga valley. An art class is contemplated and may be formed in the near future and music may also be taken up in class.

Mrs. Genevieve Adams of Tujunga will have charge of all musical features. Her first undertaking will be a program for the entertainment of the Glendale Art association next Saturday evening.

The program includes instrumental music, vocal solos, readings and interpretative dancing by young students of the Frances Morgan school.

Membership in the Fine Arts Guild is open to artists, authors, musicians and everyone interested in any of the branches of art.

Mrs. Laura Lee Sweet, sponsor of the guild, is having one of her paintings, "The Roofs of Tujunga," framed and will present it to the Tujunga Valley bank.

Los Angeles Claims Water

A suit to quiet title to water rights in Big Tujunga canyon has been set for trial October 29.

The City of Los Angeles claims prior rights to all water in the canyon. This right is disputed by the Haines Canyon Water Company and the Tujunga Water and Power Company, the latter owned by Dr. Hansen and his associates.

While not included in the suit, the Monte Vista Mutual Water Company will be affected by the confirmation of the city's claim to priority over all other rights.

Claim to these rights by the city is based on an old Spanish grant, and has been the bone of contention for some time.

Confirmation of the claim would not greatly affect the Haines Canyon Water Company, as it obtains a supply from wells located in Haines canyon and between Tujunga and Sunland. Denial, however, would benefit any extension plans contemplated by this company, as it claims rights in Big Tujunga canyon that would afford an increased supply for future development.

Rights claimed by the Tujunga Water and Power Company also could be utilized for the irrigation of large tracts of high land between Tujunga and La Crescenta.

Certain phases of development in the valley depend largely on the outcome of this suit.

URGES PURCHASE OF WINTER FUEL

Carbon Briquets Are Offered Direct to Consumers by Manufacturers

"Order now and avoid the rush" may be a trite expression, but it was never more appropriate than at the present, according to Champ S. Vance, vice-president of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric corporation. An expert in fuel matters who was called into conference by noted fuel experts during and after the war, Vance is now prepared to advise those who are preparing to lay in their winter supply.

Carbon-briquets have again been placed on the market by the Los Angeles gas company. The fuel that proved itself by severe tests to be the most economical fuel on the market at the price is now being offered to consumers direct from the manufacturer. There is to be a demand for this fuel and the advice to those who are planning to lay in their winter's supply is to buy at once.

"There is no guarantee that we will not pass through another fuel famine such as threatened last winter," said Vance. "We have no cause for alarm and the government is not likely to commandeer any of our carbon briquets. However, my advice to those who plan to purchase briquets is to buy them at once.

"Carbon briquets have been tested under the most severe conditions and have been proved to be the most economical fuel on the market. They are practically ashless. Those who buy this year will get the same high grade fuel that we have been supplying heretofore, only I do urge everyone to purchase early and avoid the rush that is so certain to come.

LA CRESCENTA

SCOUTS TO MEET IN BIG ROUNDUP

La Crescentans Are Invited to Attend Picnic at Robinson Ranch

Scoutmaster Angier announces that the Boy Scouts of the Verdugo Hills district will have an immense roundup Saturday night, September 29. The affair will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Robison, Los Robles, on West Honolulu avenue, about one mile west of Pennsylvania boulevard. Mr. Robison is scoutmaster of Glendale Troop No. 2.

This district roundup is being sponsored by the Troop Leaders' Roundtable, who are ably assisted by the Verdugo Hills Boy Scout council, and is being held as a sort of family reunion, to get the Scouts, their families and friends together for a jolly good time and show what scouting is doing for the younger generation.

The meeting will open at 3 p. m. Saturday afternoon with the Boy Scout game "Capture the Flag," and there will be contests and games of all kinds. The fathers and mothers present will vie with each other for vocal honors.

The picnic dinner will be at 6 p. m., everyone bringing their own picnic basket, cup and spoons. Coffee for the adults and cocoa for the young folks and Scouts will be furnished, and everyone is requested to stay after supper for the big event of the evening, the bonfire.

Every troop is to furnish two stunts, one comic and one serious one. The attraction of the evening will be Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., who is a most enthusiastic Scout, and will, no doubt, tell what he most appreciates in the Scout work.

The bonfire will be lighted promptly at 7:30, in the primitive manner of rubbing two sticks together. The fire pit is ten feet in diameter, and local Scouts are busy hauling fuel to the pit.

Troops will be present from Glendale, Eagle Rock, Sunland, Tujunga and La Crescenta. It is suggested parents should accompany younger children as everyone will be busy with affairs of the evening.

The Scouts extend a cordial invitation to all La Crescentans to be present, so bring the picnic basket out on Saturday and show the scoutmasters you all appreciate the work they are doing for your boys — Saturday evening, September 29, at Robison's Ranch, one mile west of Pennsylvania on Honolulu.

Mr. Eberle has sold his property on Mayfield avenue and is now building a store on Pennsylvania avenue next to Wadey's oil station. He will conduct a plumbing business in this location and will rent space out for a barber shop.

Women Plan Sale

The Women's Service league will hold a food sale at Wooley's Grocery on Honolulu avenue on Saturday of this week. The sale will start at 12 o'clock and continue till all edibles are disposed of. These will consist of pies, cakes, bread, preserves and jams, all home made. This sale is being held to raise the remainder of the $1000 the Women's Service league pledged toward the building fund of the Community church. Anyone wishing to help the good work along, can leave salable articles with Mrs. Wooley, who will turn them over to the committee in charge.

The membership drive being held in the public school here is waxing fast and furious, as the room getting 100 per cent membership first is to be rewarded with a party. A special prize will also be awarded the room that gets the most new members according to the proportionate size of the class.

According to the state law all minors under 18, over 3, are required to be registered whether they attend school or not; this must be done at the school house during the week of October 1. Registration hours will be from 7:30 a. m. to 7 p. m., and on Saturday 7:30 to 12 noon. Mr. Blanford will appreciate the co-operation of parents in this matter.

Hidden Human Thoughts
Do You 'Kid' Yourself?
A Pyramid of Books
Two Unwritten Comments

By Gil A. Cowan

HIDDEN thoughts of human beings are the most intriguing subject of mental research imaginable. A great many people, you hear on the streets, say "I know Bill Smith."

But do they know him? Perhaps they have seen him, shook hands with him, talked with him, but, as the old, old saying goes, "You don't really know a man until you have gone out and gotten drunk with him."

That is a very crude statement, yet the average individual does not reveal himself while in his right mind. And there are reasons for this. Just try to assert yourself, folks. Endeavor to show your contempt and see how quick people are prone to accept it for envy, spite or malice.

Or admit your ignorance, if you will, and see how people tread upon you. Or display your knowledge, and see how many more like to make you a mark for jibes and criticisms.

As a result many of the wisest men say least. Many of the most ignorant men say nothing and appear equally as wise. Many a contemptuous fellow makes believe he is your friend when the public is looking. So it is good to glance behind the scenes and see life in its grim realities.

It may be cynical to say that brotherly love is a minus quantity in most instances. It is talked about, preached upon and set up before us, but believe it if you will. The writer cannot, except where it is proven beyond a shadow of a doubt.

Perhaps the writer has as many good friends, tried and true, as any man in Glendale. At least we should hope so, even were the facts otherwise But we know we have hundreds who pretend friendship, the same as others pretend to be religious and moral and scrupulously honest. And may we not criticize ourselves by pretending to be important at times?

It only goes to demonstrate the hidden thoughts which outwardly are camouflaged by a serious countenance or a jovial smile, depending entirely on the circumstances. You know and I know that life is mostly "hokum," and, unless you play the game so so, you are despised and criticized.

Perhaps you have a favorite phrase, like our own, for instance: "You can't kid me!"

I use it, day after day, in dealing with people who are handing out the "hokum."

A friend of mine says, tritely: "Now, don't you try to stuff me with that."

Wonder what your mental reservations are, folks, when you listen to what some one has to say, and realize it is only "hokum."

That intrigues us more than the revolt in Germany or the Bulgarian uprising or the Oklahoma fiasco.

Doesn't it you?

There are things, however, which are not "hokum," but serious factors in our lives, which must be faced. And Glendale has an issue at hand.

Bonds must be voted to build a sewerage system. Nothing should be permitted to intervene. Every honest, thinking resident and property owner should bend every effort to put over an unanimous election for the $800,000 or more bond issue.

Glendale cannct become stagnant. Lack of sewers means just that. Glendale cannot look to providence to give it that which man must make. Sewers are necessities for cities. And so it goes.

We shall not "kid" ourselves on this question. Sewers and the money therefor must be had.

Glendale will have it.

A little pyramid we have before us on our desk. A dictionary, a telephone book and a city directory. What a powerful combination for the newspaperman.

The dictionary is nearly worn out. It was ever so around a good newspaper office. Surprising to say, it is not used for finding new words, but verifying the ones already in use.

The telephone book, while comparatively new, also is well thumbed. In this country of magnificent distances and good telephone service the information is soon at hand regarding any current bit of intelligence.

And with the city directory immediate identification is given any person, locally, who may be concerned in the grist of the news. It is a great combination, that little pyramid of books on the corner of the desk.

Among subjects of editorial comments we shall not write for this evening's paper are:

"Why Friend Richardson was linked to the alleged theft of the Johnson-McClatchy letter."

"Why Hiram Johnson attacks efficiency and economy in this state."

The reason? you ask. Simple enough. It is not the writer's belief that Richardson will again be governor, or that Johnson will realize his lifetime's dream of being president.

And we are more interested in the persons who are to become governor and president!

Studies pertaining to foreign service were taken by 12,202 students in this country during the school year of 1922-23, an increase of 1851 over the preceding year.

TODAY—Is Comic Opera Coming Back? Hothouse That Wilts Flowers; The Sad Tale of John Doe.

By GEORGE T. HOOK
For International News Service

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Shades of Gilbert and Sullivan! New York theatrical producers whose forte is musical plays are apparently going to stage a comeback for the once popular comic opera. You know, the "Miss Bob White," "Madame Modiste," "The Mikado," "Princess Bonnie," "Chimes of Normandy," "Little Tycoon" stuff—the kind of plays that linger now in the minds of the old and middle-aged, but are as strange to the youthful moderns as chicken is to an Eighth avenue chicken pie.

The reason for the contemplated recrudescence of that which fell into disuse with the advent of the musical comedy is the discrimination evinced by the theatre-going public in the last several seasons. Producers have ample proof, they say, that audiences nowadays want musical plays that have some "meat" for mental as well as optical consumption.

Arthur Hammerstein, prominent American producer, whose "Wildflower" met with such marked success during the last season and which showed evidence of retaining its popularity this season, spoke for himself and others of his profession the other day when he said: "America has found herself on the musical comedy stage, and where she led the world into a chaotic mass of blaring sound and wild and rampant colors in revues she will again take the lead in bringing the theatre to comic opera which will live up to what the name conveys."

In other words, comic opera is to be the child of evolution. Its usurper, the old-type musical comedy, gave way to the cleaner, meatier type of musical play, which in turn gave rise to revues, all sorts of vanities, scandals, follies and the like, and now the stage is being set for comic opera to evolve from all this—to stage a return engagement.

Yet, despite the contention of Mr. Hammerstein that "theatrical managers have run the death-knell" of musical plays minus plot, the revues, scandals, vanities, follies and artists' models—things which are odds and ends pieced together, with artistic and even extravagant staging and are absolutely devoid of plot that runs throughout the production—continue to magnetize the ducats.

But Mr. Hammerstein insists that "the new era of finesse has arrived" on the stage, and no more will be tolerated the "bawling, syncopated soubrette whose only acquisition was a reputation in the divorce courts and a vulgar method of kicking."

Shake hands with Mrs. Black Weasel, esteemed matron of the tribe of Arapahoes, of Wyoming. If you're one of the many who dislike the metropolis as a permanent place of residence you'll be glad to meet her, for Mrs. Black Weasel "can't see why anyone wants to live in New York."

One of the twenty-seven full-blooded Indians who travelled all the way from Wyoming to camp in the city for a while before going to London to give the subjects of Britain a sight of the real thing as Redskins go, and one of the few squaws of the old school who speak English, Mrs. Weasel was frank in branding the city a "hothouse that wilts flowers."

A fine figure of speech that, if you understand what she meant. It seems that nowadays not even the red race is immune from the greatest scourge of the city, but Mrs. Weasel, modest like, refused to delve into that subject.

However, her visit was productive of a good phrase typifying the "melting pot":

"A hothouse that wilts flowers."

It might as well be made known now as later—

The mythical, the oft-convenient John Doe is no mo'.

John Doe actually is the name of a human being. He resides in Brooklyn, and how or where he got the name has not been fully determined. However, the other day John landed where all John Does land—in court. He got what many John Does get—thirty days.

Near beer on Ellis Island, instead of being a legitimatized evil as relics of "the good old days" think it is, is intended as a boon to the unsuspecting immigrants who through ignorance of vital world affairs are not aware that the United States is rehearsing prohibition and that bootlegging has become a lucrative profession. The purpose of near beer on the immigrant isle is humanitarian—to "break the news gently."

Timely Views on World Topics

"EUROPE ON BRINK OF DISASTER," SAYS CONGRESSMAN BERGER, SOCIALIST

Victor Berger, Socialist congressman from Milwaukee, sees Europe tottering to a fall and Austria doomed, according to interviews on his return to America from his European tour.

"All America got out of the war," said Mr. Berger, "was prohibition, the 'flu,' $18,000,000,000 in debts and 323,000 casualties.

"Europe is on the brink of disaster, and if Germany goes under she will pull France with her. France is slow to see the handwriting on the wall. Before the war her franc was rated at five to the dollar. Today it is eighteen to the dollar. Incidentally, wheat now is 95 cents a bushel in the United States, and we, too, are beginning to feel the effects of the absurd program of trying to throttle Germany industrially and yet think that she can pay. France cannot expect Germany to pay reparations or debts unless she can produce through her released industries. As matters stand, Germany cannot pay.

"The Ruhr situation is the greatest crime committed by the white race. America is aiding and abetting directly. When it comes to a real issue of rebuilding Europe, America, like Pilate, washes her hands. If the United States had not intervened, the World War would have ended in a draw and Europe would have worked out her own destiny.

"The only government that has taken a sane attitude has been England. We followed England into the war, so why cannot we follow her in establishing peace? I feel confident that had President Harding lived he would have discovered some means of extricating Europe from the present chaos. I don't know what Mr. Coolidge will do, but I hope he will act to bring about a quick settlement. In order to produce and pay her debts Germany must have raw materials, and unless she can get a loan of $1,000,000,000 to do this her mills and factories will have to shut."

Mr. Berger ridiculed the idea that the mark had been deliberately deflated through a conspiracy by German industrial magnates. He said the chief engineer of one of the largest firms in Wurtemburg traveled third class on the Albert Ballin because the state which sent him to America, could not afford a second-class passage. The engineer, Mr. Berger said, is here to interest American capital in a canal construction project.

"England," said Mr. Berger, "disarmed after the war, while France greatly increased her military power. She now has more airplanes than any nation and has ten times as many tanks as she had during the war. France is building submarines constantly. England realizes now, in matters of war, that she is no longer an island, but a part of the Continent, and that is why she is afraid to act."

A wave of Communism might sweep over Germany from Russia, he added, if no financial aid were forthcoming to enable Germany to purchase raw materials for her factories to keep her people employed.

In his opinion, Austria is the most expensive country in the world in which to live, and "as a nation is doomed." Mr. Berger said the present surface prosperity in Austria is artificial and that the only way out for the Viennese lies in their absorption by some adjoining nation.

Dinner Stories

For twenty years two business men in Vienna met every day at the Schnitzelplatz cafe for luncheon, and after the dishes were cleared away they would indulge in a game of chess, says the Metropolitan Magazine. And every day for ten years a young man, a stranger to both the players, would draw up a chair and watch them in silence.

Finally one day one of the old gentlemen failed to make an appearance and, after waiting a decent length of time, the other turned to the young man who sat waiting for the game to begin, speaking to him for the first time since he had been a spectator. "My partner may not appear today. Would you care to play a game with me?"

"Sorry," the young man replied, "but I don't know the game."

Military strength of the United States now consists of 144,000 regulars and 162,000 National Guards.

Adventures of Billy Whiskers

By Frances Trego Montgomery

You remember we left Stubby in the aeroscope while we thought how easy it is to go to the "far west" on the train. All the Indians one sees are the show Indians at Albuquerque, if one chooses to go by the southern route. And I expect if the inventors keep as busy as they are now in the near future we will be flying to California in some kind of air craft, taking our ease and as free from freight as we now are when riding on a train.

There were many more concessions into which Stubby could have gotten a peep, but he was so busy looking at the Wild West show and the performance going on in the three rings that he forgot to look into any of the others. And when the car came to a standstill he was very sorry, for he would have liked to see more. He was just planning in his own mind how he would stay in and go up again when the conductor called: "All out! Ground floor! Take the stairs to your left!"

Stubby did not move, in the hopes that the conductor would not see him, but he did and cried out: "Here, little dog, get out! You have had one free ride this morning and you can't have another."

So Stubby got up and followed the crowd out into the Zone again.

Just that minute he saw a big, black cat being chased by an infuriated darky cook wearing an Aunt Jemima turban on her head and flourishing a big broom in her hand, ready to strike the offending cat when she got near enough. All the time she was running she was saying to herself: "Just wait until I catch you, you black rascal! I'll teach you to steal my plate of hot pancakes. Just you wait! I'll break every bone in your black back!" And she looked as if she was angry enough to carry out all her threats, which there was no danger of her doing as Button (for Button it was) was too far away by this time for anyone to overtake her.

"Heigho!" said Stubby. "So Button has been up to his old trick of stealing something to eat whenever he gets hungry! By the way, that reminds me that I am hungry also. But I don't feel I should stop looking for Nannie to go and find something to eat now. Especially after losing so much time while up in that Aeroscope.

(Don't you wonder what happens to Stubby next and if he finds Nannie?)

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY AND SAMMIE'S KITE

"Will you please make me a kite with a tail on, Uncle Wiggily?" begged Sammie the rabbit boy one day.

"Why do you want a kite with a tail on, when the kites without tails go up so much more easily?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, I like to see the kite tail twisting up in the air like a snake," said Sammie.

So Uncle Wiggily made him a kite with a long tail to it, and after it was made Mr. Longears helped the little rabbit boy to fly the kite. It wasn't easy, as at first the tail was not heavy enough, and the kite dived from side to side like a hawk after a chicken.

Then Sammie made the tail too heavy and the kite would hardly go up at all. But at last the tail was made just about right and the kite went flying up into the air, slowly darting here and there and "jiggling the tail like a snake," as Sammie said.

"Well, I'll leave you for a while, Sammie," said Uncle Wiggily, "as I have to go to the store for Nurse Jane."

So Uncle Wiggily hopped to the five and six cent store to get ten cents worth of molasses sewing silk for his muskrat lady housekeeper, and Sammie kept on flying his kite.

On the way to the store Uncle Wiggily met Mr. Twistytail the pig gentlemen, who was also a barber.

"Where are you going, Mr. Twistytail?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"I have just made a wig of very fine curled hair," said Mr. Twistytail, "and I am taking the wig to the bald eagle."

"I didn't know you made wigs for bald eagles," spoke Uncle Wiggily.

"Why, yes, of course I do," grunted the pig gentleman. "Don't you remember the song: 'Barber, barber, shave a pig. How many hairs will make a wig? Four and twenty—that's enough. Give the barber a pinch of snuff.'"

"Yes, I remember that," said Uncle Wiggily.

"Well," went on Mr. Twistytail, "the bald eagle gave me a pinch of snuff—aker-choo—excuse me, but every time I think of snuff I have to sneeze. The bald eagle gave me a pinch of snuff—aker-choo — excuse me. The bald eagle gave me a pinch of snuff — aker-choo — excuse me—"

"Say, look here," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "Never mind about the—well—never mind about—you know what—go on with your story."

"Well," grunted Mr. Twistytail. "The bald eagle—no, I'll not say it—anyhow here's the wig I made for him," and he held it up. "I'm taking it to him now," he said. "You know the bald eagle doesn't like it that no hairs grow on the top of his head in the place where the hairs ought to grow, so he's going to wear a wig."

"It is very kind of you to make it for him," spoke the bunny.

"Well," grunted the pig, "the bald eagle gave me a pinch of snuff and — aker-choo—excuse me——"

But Uncle Wiggily, laughing, hopped on his way, leaving Mr. Twistytail to sneeze as much as he liked and take the wig to the bald eagle.

It was some little time after this—later in the day—that Uncle Wiggily met the pig gentleman again.

"Say, Uncle Wiggily, look here if you please! What kind of tricks do you call these?" and Mr. Twistytail puffed out his cheeks and seemed a very angry pig, indeed.

"Tricks? What do you mean?" asked the bunny gentleman. "I have been playing no tricks on you. Where's the bald eagle's wig?"

"That's just it—where is it?" grunted the gentleman pig. "If you haven't played a trick it's that rabbit nephew of yours, Sammie Littletail! Oh, dear me—snuff—ker-choo — excuse me—wigs! Oh, dear!"

"Why, whatever is the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Well," went on Mr. Twistytail, "as I was walking through the wood taking the wig to the bald eagle, all of a sudden it was snatched from my paws, and right after that I saw Sammie running away as fast as he could run. He took my ker-choo—I mean my snuff—I mean the wig!"

"I hardly think Sammie would play a trick like that," said Uncle Wiggily, "but we'll go ask him." They found the little rabbit boy flying his kite with the tail on.

"Oh, no, Uncle Wiggily, I didn't take Mr. Twistytail's wig!" protested Sammie. "My kite dived down a little and I ran to get it back up again, but——"

"Pull down your kite for a moment, Sammie," said Uncle Wiggily. And when this was done—lo and behold! There on the end of the kite tail was the bald eagle's wig.

"That's how it happened, Mr. Twistytail," said Uncle Wiggily. "Sammie's kite dived down, the tail tangled in the wig you carried and snatched it out of your paws. You saw Sammie running to get his kite up again."

"Oh, all right! Ha! Ha! That's a funny joke!" laughed the pig gentleman. "Anyhow I'm glad I have the bald eagle's wig back, and here is a penny to buy you a lollypop, Sammie."

"Thank you," laughed Sammie as he flew his kite without the wig. And if the parlor rug doesn't tickle the little toe on the foot of the stairs and make the rubber ball slide down the banister, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the baby's bottle.

C. H. Bott of the Glendale Book Store has a photograph which is quite valuable. The picture represents the old original Verdugo ranch house up in the canyon. In the foreground is the grand old live oak tree under which General Pico surrendered in the last struggle against the United States for the possession of California. Mr. Bott took the picture recently and enlarged it.

If there is a citizen in Glendale that has well-founded reasons for believing that the Glendale post-office should remain a branch of the Los Angeles office, the News will be glad to hear from such a person.

Mr. and Mrs. Mattison B. Jones of 106 North Orange street left this morning for San Diego, where they will attend the Baptist convention now being held there.

Special Presbyterian Services End Tonight

Dr. Elwood P. Lyon of Pasadena will speak at the service at the Glendale Presbyterian church this evening. His subject will be "Why the Church?"

This will be the concluding service of pre-communion week and is popularly known among the local Presbyterians as "Family Night." The session will meet at the close of this service to receive new members into the church, both by letter and on confession of faith.

The sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed at the Sunday morning service, and at the same service a large number of new members will be publicly welcomed. The closing service on Sunday evening will be an evangelistic service and the sermon will be preached by the pastor, Rev. W. E. Edmonds, At the conclusion of the service the keys of the church will be formally turned over to the officials of the Broadway Methodist church South who have purchased the building and will continue to use it for public worship.

Steamer Commander Visits Friends Here

Captain Andrew Petrie, commander of the S. Y. Aguila, a coastwise vessel in Alaskan waters, was a recent visitor in Glendale, who motored south from Seattle, Wash., and spent several days at the home of his relatives, Mrs. R. J. White and family of 228 East Maple avenue.

Captain Petrie is formerly from New Zealand, and has followed the sea since he was a lad of 14 years of age. He is commander of one of the Alexander vessels which plies along the coast between Vancouver, B. C., and Alaska for the benefit of the tourist travel. Mrs. White is also from New Zealand. They had not met for many years until he came to the Alaskan coast. His occasional visits here have been greatly enjoyed at the White home.

Rabbi Magnin Will Speak Sunday Night

Glendale Congregationalists and their friends are anticipating with interest the address to be given Sunday night at the church by Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin of Los Angeles. He will speak at 7:30 o'clock at the church on North Central and Wilson avenues.

Rabbi Magnin, who has served for several years as pastor of B'nai B'rith of Los Angeles, is a graduate of the University of Cincinnati and of the Hebrew Union seminary of that city.

The meeting Sunday night is under the auspices of the Congregational men's club. There will be vocal numbers by J. A. Myers, H. E. Cavanah, Myron Carman and a men's chorus.

Red Letter Day for First Lutheran Flock

Marking a red letter day in the history of the First Lutheran church, Sunday, September 30, will be featured by opening services in the annex of the new church building at 233 South Kenwood street.

The pastor, Dr. H. C. Funk, will celebrate the occasion with a sermon on "Possessing the Land." H. J. Niebank will sing, accompanied by Miss Mary Sherrick.

Dr. Funk states that the foundations are being laid for the auditorium and parsonage and that much progress is being made.

GERMANY'S TRIALS BARED BY EBERT

Son of President Writes for International News on Internal Situation

BERLIN, Sept. 28.—The action of Bavaria in appointing a dictator is most serious. It is a storm signal. The crucial question is:

Will the Von Kneilling government be compelled to evacuate in favor of the Von Kahr dictatorship?

Is it possible (people are asking) whether Munich has merely let down the curtain behind which the Bavarian Fascisti have been active for weeks? Behind this curtain they may have been preparing for bigger things than a mere display of strength.

At any rate, Bavaria sets the ball rolling. Germany is faced with her supreme test.

Fascisti for Monarchy

The test that faces Germany in the next few weeks is one between republicanism and monarchy, with the Fascisti arrayed on the side of the latter.

A redeeming feature of the situation is the fact that Bavarian leaders are not united. All are pulling in different directions. Dr. Hitler and Von Kahr are chief and outstanding figures in the Bavarian government. Hitler would be forced to assert his own power. It is possible that he may succeed in enlisting a majority of the Bavarian people in the ranks of the black shirts.

If it should come to a test of armed strength the Hitlerites should win, having the better organization.

Scramble For Power

The first phase would be a scramble for the dictatorship among the various leaders.

(Ebert evidently refers to a political dictatorship, as his article was written after Minister of Defense Gessler had been appointed dictator by the Ebert government.)

It is obvious that a cut-throat struggle would take place among the political parties. This would give the responsible leaders in Bavaria and the balance of Germany time to make plans to save the nation before an armed clash could result.

House Hunting Here Is a Vexing Problem

with the big pepper tree in the back yard whose softly-drooping feathery branches swept a circle nearly forty feet in diameter. This refuge had been secured after a whole day's quest and only housed a part of the family.

Another day the search was continued. Arriving in Glendale early in the morning on the Pacific Electric and landing at the eastern terminus at the corner of Fourth and Glendale avenue an exploration followed in the fan shaped territory which spread from that point and 9 o'clock that night saw a procession moving from "E" street over to "C" street bearing a lighted kerosene lamp, a bundle of bed clothes and a sleeping child. Perseverance had been rewarded. An unfurnished room had been secured. The stored furniture had been raided and the necessary articles had been installed in a home known in those days as the Sam Fiske house.

House Held by Court

On the corner of "A" (Adams) and Third street a cottage seemed available as the last of three old people who had lived there had died, but a rap at the door brought a pleasant face young man who said no doubt there was room but he was there by direction of the court and everything was under the seal of the court.

It was a disappointment as it was a pleasant little brown cottage with a little bay-window. It is still standing at this corner, but, alas, without the inclosed acre of ground with magnolia and fig trees and a row of big pepper trees which stood in the middle of Adams street, which were later removed to open the street to the south.

A suggestion as to the possibility of quarters on "G" (Geneva) street took the parties up to a charming little cottage set in grounds where every variety of fruit, citrus and deciduous, grew. A pleasant chat with the tiny southern mistress and equally cordial master but "no room in the inn."

At last with no newspaper and no real estate agents to assist in the canvass we located an unfurnished room and stumbling through the sand of the unpaved street, the kerosene lamp augmented at intervals by the search light from Mt. Lowe. It was the end of, no not a "Perfect Day," but of our first day in Glendale.

Fraternities Back of Occidental's Spirit

President R. D. Bird of Occidental college has just received a resolution from the inter-fraternity council of that college which shows the true Occidental spirit of the fraternal organizations and of which President Bird is very proud. The fraternities have unanimously expressed their desire to back the president's aims and plans and to put "Occidental First," by resolving:

"That we, the members of the inter-fraternity council, representing our respective organizations, pledge ourselves that no fraternal rivalry shall interfere in the least with the carrying out of our slogan 'Occidental First.'"

Diet and Health

DIRECTIONS FOR FEEDING THE BABY THE SECOND YEAR

The child's second year has a reputation for being the most difficult year and the most dangerous year, and it usually is.

Do you know why this is so, mothers? I'll tell you. It is because the same scrupulous care is not given the baby's feeding and to other health measures during the second year as was given the first year. In the second year the babies are too often given foods they should not have and they are fed at all hours of the day. Their daily baths are usually discontinued. (And they really need these more rather than less).

If the same care is given to the baby the second year—the same regularity of meals; no foods given that he has not learned to digest by very gradual feeding; nothing allowed between meals but water; and if his daily baths and other hygienic measures are kept up—there is no more danger in the second year than the first year. This will comfort you, I know.

Most of the foods necessary for the second year should be begun the first year. Now, of course, they can be taken in larger quantities. The baby can be taking daily from one-half to one cup of fresh vegetables, measured after cooking. It is best to strain them until the first molars are in (12th-16th month).

It is well to begin giving some of the tender fresh vegetables raw, after all the teeth are in and baby can chew. Grind the vegetables very fine at first. Some of them may appear in the stools undigested, but if there is no distress this is no cause for discontinuing them.

You, mothers, must see that baby masticates his food thoroughly by giving him some morsels at a time and showing him how. Some time during the second year he can begin to handle a spoon and feed himself, but he must be supervised to see that he does not take too much at a mouthful.

Eggs

Baby has already had egg yolks the first year. When you begin to give him the white of the eggs, start with not more than a teaspoonful and increase the same amount every other day. As I have told you, some children do not digest egg white easily: it is one of the proteins that may produce eczema if the child is susceptible. But given in this way it probably won't cause any disturbance. Cook it in any way so it is tender. No fried foods for any young child.

Bread

It is well to continue toasting the bread very thoroughly but you can vary it by giving baby hard rusks or rolls or French bread if twenty-four hours old (the bread, mothers, not the baby) for the development of the jaws and teeth.

No young child should have fresh or soft bread, hot muffins, doughnuts, griddle cakes, nor waffles, as they are more apt to form gummy masses and ferment and cause distress.

Butter

One to two level teaspoonfuls can be taken on the bread and vegetables during the day. It is valuable for its fat, and for its growth and anti-opthalmic vitamins.

Meat

Scraped beef is made by scraping raw beef steak with a silver spoon or knife. Make into loose little cakes and broil. Add a little butter and salt (not much).

Milk

Milk is still and should continue to be the foundation of the diet. At least twenty-four ounces should be given baby daily.

If nothing is given between meals but water (two or three glasses during the day) baby will be hungry at meal times as he should be. Do not permit him to dawdle nor to eat too rapidly. The habits of eating he establishes the first two years are probably going to persist throughout life.

This applies to other habits as well, Mothers!

Next Friday, Table of feeding the second year.

Tomorrow—Answers to Correspondents.

Daily Fashion Hint

Prepared Especially for The Glendale Evening News

FROCKS THAT LEAD THE MODE

Fashion gives to these frocks the smartest details of cut and trimming consistent with simple designing. Cocoa-brown rep is used for the first dress, which is made with a deep open front, showing a vestee with straight upper edge. The skirt opens over a front panel of figured silk to correspond with the vestee. The deep collar, which turns back from the front of the blouse, is of self-material. Medium size requires 3¼ yards 54-inch rep and 1 yard of figured silk.

Wool crepe in black-and-white check trimmed with black silk braid bespeaks the smartness of Paris in the second model. The blouse fastens in surplice fashion, and there is also a side adjustment of the skirt. An immense rosette of black satin ribbon is the only trimming at the waist-line. A vestee may or may not be worn, as individual taste prefers. Medium size requires 3¼ yards 54-inch material and 5 yards of braid.

First Model—Pictorial Review Dress No. 1524. Sizes, 34 to 42 inches bust. Price, 35 cents.

Second Model—Dress No. 1513. Sizes, 34 to 44 inches bust. Price, 35 cents.

Beauty Chats

By Edna Kent Forbes

HOUSEWIVES AND NURSES

There seems to be an old and well founded tradition that a nurse should be homely—preferably middle aged, stern and certainly homely. I think the war broke that absolute rule a little. One saw the prettiest Red Cross nurses! They must have been enormously appreciated too.

I have an idea that, if there's one profession more than any other which demands beauty, it's nursing—for chorus girls can paint and be seen from distance and by healthy folks. Whereas sick people are querulous, helpless; all life comes to them through the nurse, it's really unfair to inflict ugliness upon the helpless.

Nowadays, too, so many nurses go in for such violent cleanliness. I remember once when I was ill, how I dreaded the frequent appearances of a grim visaged, ugly nurse who crackled with starch, whose terribly white uniform only reminded me of death and bleached bones — not cheerful thoughts for a sick room. In Europe, nurses wear starched bows under their chins, not even Cleopatra's beauty could survive that.

If I must be ill and have a nurse, I want her dressed in a plain washable dress of gray or soft blue or tan, under her white apron, and with a frilly and becomingly shaped cap. I want her to use face powder, just to remind me of frivolous things, and a little rouge too, if she hasn't naturally pink cheeks, and knows how to put rouge on. I'd like her to wear the soft white or colored veils down her back, which the Red Cross had in wartimes, because they were so extraordinarily becoming.

Mostly, the housewife turns in and is nurse, and has no time for frills. But a clean white apron can always hang outside the sick-room door, to don upon going in, and a little extra care can be taken that the dress underneath is attractive. Clean, cool hands and a smiling face are appreciated too.

A. A. N.—C. O. N.:—Paint Bitter Aloes under the finger tips to break the habit of biting nails. There is nothing harmful in this if you should get it in your mouth. It is only something which serves as a reminder by its very bitter taste.

Mrs. R. L. H.:—Extract the coarse hairs by using a blunt end tweezer. Bleach the finer ones with peroxide, unless you can have the hair removed through electric needle treatments.

Quince-Apple Preserves—These two fruits are delicious canned together. Use two-thirds of firm, tart apples to one-third of quinces. Pare apples and cut them into quarters (cores removed). Pare and core quinces, then cut them into eighths. Drop the pieces (both fruits) into a bowl of cold water to which you have added the juice of one lemon. Drain and place them in a wire basket and lower the basket in boiling water for one and one-half minutes, then plunge the basket into a pan of cold water for an instant. Drain and pack the fruit in alternate layers in hot, sterilized glass jars; fill the jar to within one-half inch of the top with a boiling hot, medium thick sirup made by boiling two quarts of water together until the sirup will wrinkle when a little of it is taken up on a spoon and the spoon tipped. Adjust new rubber and glass cap, partially seal (that is, put up top wire but do not press down side wire) and stand the jar on a wooden rack in your wash-boiler, in boiling water which rises almost to jar top. Let the water continue to boil around the jar twenty minutes, then completely seal, invert to test for leaks, and store. (To sterilize the glass jar before filling it with fruit, boil it empty, with its glass cap beside it, in clear water for fifteen minutes.)

Apple-Grape Butter—Core and pare ten pounds of apples. Stem seven pounds of grapes. Put apples and grapes into an enamelware or agate saucepan with four cups of cold water; bring to boiling point, then continue to boil until soft. Strain through a sieve, return to the saucepan, add eight cups of granulated sugar which has been heated a little in your oven, and also add one teaspoon of ground cinnamon and one-half teaspoon each of ground ginger, mace and cloves. Cook till thick, stirring often. Turn into hot, sterilized jars and seal.

Sliced Apple-Onion Pickle—"Core, pare and thinly slice two pounds of cooking apples. Also pare and slice two pounds of Spanish onions. Fill hot, sterile glass jars with alternate layers of each, putting between each layer a little chopped red sweet pepper (or chilies) and a pinch each of ground ginger, cinnamon, allspice and mace. Fill the jars with cold vinegar and completely seal. This pickle is not cooked."—(Contributed by Mrs. S. A.)

THE MODERN MAID

I do admire your loveliness.
Your beauty's a career.
You are a lipstick artist, and
You do know how to dress.

You have it on the old-time maid,
And you have surely won
Felicitations and respect,
But—throw away that gum.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of sixteen and very much in love with a boy of eighteen. He is of a poor family and my mother and father object to my going with him. I love this boy very dearly and wish very much to go with him. He is always asking me for dates, but my father objects seriously.

Would you advise me to go with him or give him up for my father's sake? ANXIOUS.

Your father's reason for objecting to the boy is decidedly snobbish. Since you are only sixteen, however, the thing for you to do is to obey your father. The day may come when the boy will work out of his present conditions and amount to something. It does not pay to judge youth by riches or poverty.

Try to keep your democratic ideas when you are older and look deeper than the pocketbook in choosing your friends. Character counts far more than money in bringing about happiness.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of sixteen and have been going with a fellow for five months. There are certain girls I go with and when my friend sees me on the street with them he does not speak. He told me he did not like these girls and that he would not speak when they were with me. Do you think he loves me? I love him dearly. BLUE EYES.

The "better than thou" attitude which the young man assumes would indicate that he does not love you. If his affection were deep he would want to speak to you regardless of your associates. You have not said why he does not like the girls, but as far as I can see that has nothing to do with the case. It is to be hoped that the young man has so pure a character and always will have that he can be excused for feeling so superior.

In case he feels that he is trying to save you from bad associates, he has taken a very ungentlemanly course in protecting you against them.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl in my teens. Five years ago I moved with my parents from another state. Previously I became acquainted with a young man ten years my senior. During the time I lived there he treated me very nicely, except on one evening. After I moved away I did not see him until the next summer, when I went back to visit my friends. I talked to him and had a nice visit. I cared very much for this young man and was always glad when summer came so I could go back to see him and my other friends.

This summer he asked to take me home from something that I had gone to. He treated me very rudely and I would not talk to him. I told him not to talk to me. He said that he was sorry for the way he treated me, but I did not pay any attention to him. Now I want to make up and be friends again. Would it be correct for me to write to him and ask him to be friends, or is it his place to write first? I care very much for this young man and I want to make up. I would feel ashamed to meet him among my friends and not speak. LONESOME PAL.

Since the young man was rude to you, he deserved reproof. Do not write to him, because if he is really sorry for his rudeness he will be eager to make up and will write to you. Another time when you are visiting your friends speak to him if you meet. It would be foolish to show others that trouble has come between you. Even enemies should be pleasant when they meet socially. After the occasion is over they are free to resume their former attitude toward each other.

After the obsequies, one of the most welcome visitors to the bereaved widow is a representative of an insurance company, with a check for five thousand.

With the Women of Today

Miss Peggy Keith, aged fifteen, of Warrenton, Va., has been given the title of "America's most distinguished farmer girl" by the United States department of agriculture. She raises ponies, dogs, chickens and cattle, is an expert canner and produce grower and can qualify as a judge for any livestock show.

Peggy won her title in competition with about 600,000 boys an girls from all parts of the United States. She will be sent to the Eastern States exposition at Springfield, Mass., by the department of agriculture.

HEALTH OF WOMEN WORKERS

A bulletin from the United States Public Health Service states that, although the entire field of women in industry has not been covered by investigations, certain groups in particular locations have furnished interesting data.

Among government employes the garment workers suffered chiefly from constipation, affections of the nose and throat, and pain in the illness common to women.

School teachers in New York frequently suffered with tonsilitis and nervous diseases and less frequently with rheumatism.

Women industrial workers suffer from colds more often than men, and illnesses which keep them from work one day or longer are twice as frequent as in men.

GIRLS SEEK CAREERS

Of 309 girl graduates in the high schools of Des Moines who were asked what they wanted to do with life and themselves, only one proclaimed the ambition to marry and have a home; all the others announced the yearning for a "career"—to be actresses, lawyers, doctors, writers, teachers, missionaries, private secretaries, nurses, dieticians or something else not essentially conducive to domesticity. This would be more alarming if the girls questioned were a few years older. Usually in the early teens housekeeping and what it stands for mean little to the normal girl—drudgery is what she visualizes when she thinks of housework. In her mind she sees herself always on a pinnacle with admiring crowds surrounding her. Nature takes care that when the proper time comes the dream of public applause will mean less and less to her and the thoughts of home and husband and wee ones will draw her more and more strongly. One could safely venture the guess that the greater per cent of these ambitious young ladies will be safely anchored in homes of their own "with ropes of children," as Barrie puts it, in spite of the dreams of the days of adolescence.

According to reports, no fewer than 100 cities will be represented at the national marble shooting contest at Atlantic City, N. J., next year. More than 1,000,000 boys throughout the United States are expected to participate for local championship crowns. Only boys under fifteen are permitted to enter the tournament.

SPORTS

TECH TEAM WILL TACKLE TROJANS

Football Season Opens With Feast for Gridiron Bugs at Bovard Field

By "DOC" McGILLIS
Of The Evening News Staff.

Southern California's 1923 football season will be officially launched tomorrow afternoon at Bovard field when the huskies from the California Institute of Technology will tackle the Cardinal and Gold warriors from the University of Southern California. The Southland's gridiron bugs who have been sitting idly by for the the past ten months will undoubtedly pack the historic Trojan stands, despite the fact that the Engineers' chances for victory are as thin as a slice of ham in a restaurant sandwich.

Headed by Captain Chet Dolley the U. S. C. machine is doped to have things its own way, although Coach "Fox" Stanton's squads were never known to quit trying. Dolley at quarterback will probably be flanked by Otto Anderson and "Chief" Newman at halves and Gordon Campbell at full. The tentative linemen for the opening quarter are Pythian and Starke or Dorsey, ends; Cummings and Anderson, tackles; Hawkins and Earle or Hicks, guards; and Rice, center. If Coach Henderson follows his usual early season custom, however, practically every candidate for the varsity squad will be given a chance during the afternoon.

Local interest in Saturday's contest will center on Hollis Moyse, captain, and star tackle of the Calteck eleven. Having played in the Southern California conference for the past two years this young giant has established himself as one of the most dependable linesmen in this section, and many followers expect to see his name mentioned as an all-Southern selection at the end of the present playing season. He is the son of Professor G. U. Moyse, principal of the local high school.

Saturday's "big doin's" will be preceded by an encounter between the Loyola college squad and U. S. C.'s Frosh, the latter being coached by Leo Calland, captain of last year's successful varsity. From all advance advices the 1927 freshmen are the most formidable aggregation of Peagreeners ever to assemble at the Methodist institution, the cream of last year's prep school stars having turned out for the Henderson "system." Looks like a U. S. C. day from start to finish.

Bert Ellison Becomes Baseball's Young Pilot

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—Announcement was made today by the management of the San Francisco baseball club of the Pacific Coast league that Bert Ellison, acting manager since the death of Jack Miller, has signed a two-year contract as playing manager. Ellison, only 27, is said to be the youngest pilot in baseball. He plays first base but is equally at home in all positions.

PRACTICE GAMES FOR H. S. ELEVENS

Fillmore and Ventura Teams to Tangle With Local Pigskinners

By NEAL E. SOOY
Written for The Evening News

Glendale High school's varsity football team has been drilled thoroughly in order to have the players full of fight and pep when they take the field today in a practice game against Fillmore. The heavyweight eleven also goes to Oxnard tomorrow to take on the Bean City pigskinners.

As the Fillmore aggregation only averages about 140 pounds, the unlimited team will only play one half, and the 130 pound team will finish the game. Blackboard work is being given to the varsity aspirants at present.

The varsity plays Franklin High school a week from today and takes on Hollywood the following Tuesday. A game with Polytechnic is also sought by Coach N. C. Hayhurst.

Coach Howard Butterfield is gradually shaping the Class B team into championship material. The midgets are to be given a chance today to "strut their stuff," when they play the Fillmore team for one half.

Fleas Look Classy

The fleaweight team came out today resplendent in new uniforms. Brand new helmets, shoulder-pads, jerseys and pants were issued to them by Coach Eugene Wolfe, who has the responsibility of teaching them the fundamentals of the game. As a consequence of the new outfits, many exclamations of wrath were heard on account of the stiffness of the pants and shoulder-pads. Socks have not been given to the eleven pins yet, but will be issued soon.

A game with the Pasadena skeeters has been arranged for next Tuesday. As the Class C boys have had no scrimmage practice so far, they will not play as smoothly as the toy bulldogs.

Soccer Season Opens at Wilson Ave. School

Soccer season is opening at the Wilson Intermediate school, and the boys are turning out for practice with much enthusiasm. Class schedules will begin this coming week, and among the newly-elected class soccer captains is Earl Richardson, who will captain the A-8 III team, last year's seventh grade champions Frank Wyckoff, who carried off several ribbons in the inter-school track meet in May, will captain the B-8 II class team. Eighth grade captains predict a hard contest for the eighth grade class championship this year.

Among the boys who are turning out for senior practice are several lads that made good on last year's teams. Fred Springer, Robert Heck, Arthur Hudson and Earl Fiock are expected to shine in the inter-school contests.

America Wins Race of Navy Seaplanes

COWES, England, Sept. 28.—America today won the Schneider cup in the international race of navy seapianes. England and France competed against America.

Lieutenant Rittenhouse piloted the successful American plane. His machine attained a speed of 176 miles an hour. The total time for the course was one hour, two minutes and sixteen and two-fifths seconds.

America took second place, as well as first, Lieutenant Irving piloting the second machine. Great Britain was third.

The American victory was a blow to the British, as they were confident the superior strength of their machines would enable them to win.

Dempsey Gets Home to Undergo Operation

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28.—Jack Dempsey, heavyweight boxing champion, was "back home" today resting preparatory to an operation, the nature of which the champion refused to disclose. Dempsey said he proposed taking a good rest and then undergoing a minor operation for an ailment that had proven aggravating for some time. The lines of the champion's face seemed drawn when he arrived here.

Dempsey in discussing his fight with Luis Firpo in New York made no bones about admitting it was the greatest battle of his life.

Navy Team Permitted To Play At Pasadena

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 28.—Admiral Wilson, naval academy commandant, has announced that permission has been granted for the team to go to California to play the collegiate champion of the Pacific coast at the Tournament of Roses football game in Pasadena on New Year's day.

Signal drill, passing and kicking constituted the workout of the navy eleven today in preparation for the William and Mary game Saturday.

The Tigers approached within two games of second place by beating the Indians, 5 to 4.

O. C. Hillhouse, Noted Sharpshooter, Comes to Glendale

MR. and Mrs. O. C. Hillhouse of 136 South Columbus avenue are newcomers in Glendale. For fifteen years Mr. Hillhouse was connected with the sales department of the Winchester Repeating Arms company of New Haven, Conn. Most of this time his headquarters were in Salt Lake City. He has a number of medals won at exhibitions as a sharpshooter, for which he is nationally noted.

Mr. Hillhouse is taking over the Triangle filling station on the northeast corner of Cerritos avenue and San Fernando road, formerly operated by A. F. Barrett of 319 El Bonito street.

Yankees Desirous of World Series at Home

NEW YORK, Sept. 28. — The New York Yankees, almost in toto, have declared themselves on in the business of pulling for the Giants to win that odd game today and thus fall heir to their third straight pennant in the National League. The Yankees seem to feel that it will be vastly more profitable to have the Giants, rather than the Cincinnati Reds, collaborate with them in the world's series melon cutting. They have accepted as fact the statement that another all-Manhattan series will be worth $8000 to each player involved. We doubt it.

The receipts probably will be greater than those of any world's series ever held because the Polo grounds is a greatly enlarged enclosure this season and the new Yankee stadium will seat upward of 63,000. Playing to semi-capacity, the series will break all attendance records. It is difficult, of course, to forecast what New York will do with a big sporting event on its hands. For the opening game at the Yankee stadium, it is altogether likely that the merry villagers will gambol blithely up to the turnstiles just to see what it is all about.

The Yankees defeated the Red Sox, 8 to 3, but lost the society of Pipp and Meusel temporarily, the latter twisting his knee and the former turning a careless ankle.

Battling for the sub-cellar title, the Braves beat the Phils, 7 to 2.

ANDY KERR HAS BRIGHT CHANCES

Stanford Football Situation Better Than Ever Is Report From North

By J. EVERT SMITS
Written for The Evening News

Andy Kerr has been putting the Stanford football squad through a stiff workout twice daily since the opening of the conference season, September 15, and his team will be in good shape for the first game on October 6 when the Cards meet the Nevada eleven. Football is much farther along "on the farm" this year than it ever has been before at this time. Kerr was able to shape up a couple of teams and start them right in learning plays the first day of practice, and recently topped off his work, by lining up his men in three teams according to their ability.

Although Kerr declares that these teams are in no way first, second and third teams, it is safe to predict that the men he has lined up in squad A, as he calls it, will start the game with Nevada. Around the six men from last year's varsity he is building up a team that will average 180 pounds and which will be a much faster aggregation than the one that took the field against California last year.

Has Good Material

The Cardinal coach does not lack for backfield material and with men to work on that average 200 pounds in weight, he should be able to develop a line that can stand a good deal of pounding. Captain "Scotch" Campbell will hold down the quarterback job and is expected to be the Cards' greatest ground gainer during 1923. Nevers and Cleveland, from last year's freshman squad are being groomed for the punting job and are both developing into good backfield men.

The Lawson brothers, Jim and Dick, made a great reputation while playing at Long Beach High, and are both showing good form in practice down on the Stanford lot. Jim played end part of the time last year, but Dick was a transfer from the University of Southern California, and was therefore ineligible. These boys know a lot of football and have played with and against Dolley and other stars of the U. S. C. team.

Go Into Game Strong

The university is laying out five new football fields, which when completed will make a total of nine, and has equipment for 350 men. Stanford is going into the game on a larger scale than ever before and with real optimism radiating from the campus for the first time in several years, she can be expected to put out a winning team.

The Cards will make their first appearance in the south on October 20, when they meet the Oxy tigers in a pre-season battle. The first conference game will be played October 27 with U. S. C. playing at Stanford. That will provide the real test for the Cardinals.

May Lose Good Trio

Whether or not Cuddeback, Johnson and Douglass will be allowed to play is the question of the hour at Palo Alto. These three men were disbarred by the scholarship committee last Christmas, and it is a question if they will be declared eligible. Their loss would be a serious handicap to the Cards.

The great number of men out for the freshman team is another indication of the football revival at Stanford, and if the varsity has a successful season this year, Glenn Warner, the Pittsburgh coach who is to take over the reins next fall, will arrive at the farm at a most favorable period.

S. P. Trains Youths for Railroad Careers

A comprehensive plan for the selection of energetic and ambitious young men as junior clerks and their training by active experience for advancement toward official positions has been adopted by the Southern Pacific company.

This was revealed today by the announcement of President Wm. Sproule that Stanley P. Ward of the executive department has been appointed junior clerk employment agent of the company.

Ward is supervising the selection of young men who desire to take up railroad careers. He is working in co-operation with schools and colleges on the Pacific coast.

The young workers are being aided and encouraged in their studies of technical matters in various branches of railroad service.

Home runs by Miller and O'Farrell allowed the Cubs to defeat the Pirates, 8 to 2.

was sent to rule over the American colonies by King George of England.

Another interesting illustration shows the home of Rebecca Nourse at Danvers, Mass. Those familiar with Colonial history will remember that Rebecca Nourse was tried for witchcraft in 1692 by Justice Corwin and was sentenced to be hanged. The sentence was carried out.

Charles Everett Stowe has a particular interest in this historic house, as he once lived there for a time.

Lucille to Be "Pilgrim"

She is planning a series of costume pageants, showing the course of national holidays through the year. Miss Lucille Wentworth will be seen in the role of a Pilgrim, in one of these pageants.

William Adams Wentworth Dresser will be very proud of this little girl that day, as will be Charles Everett Stowe. Her mother will be proud. And proudest of all will be her "Daddy," Charles D. Wentworth, direct descendant of Governor Wentworth of the American colonies.

BURBANK

MAYOR CRAWFORD IS U. P. AGENT

Appointment Shows Railway Recognizes City As Business Center

A branch office of the Union Pacific railroad has been established in Burbank, and annoucement is made that Mayor J. C. Crawford, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the city, has been appointed local agent. The offices of the company will be at 130 West San Fernando boulevard, Mr. Crawford's offices.

The appointment comes as the result of a visit to Burbank last week of J. Cruickshank, general agent of the passenger department, and C. A. Redmond, district passenger agent for the Union Pacific lines. After looking over the situation they reported the need of a local agent.

While the Union Pacific railroad does not enter Burbank, its lines stopping at Glendale, the new office will take care of all passenger traffic of this community, and the office will be fitted with the customary branch office equipment.

Mr. Crawford will henceforth be in a posiiton to furnish travelers with all necessary information regarding the Union Pacific lines, such as fares, time tables, routes and schedules. In the latter connection a sixty-eight-hour run from Los Angeles to Chicago is announced, what is said to be the closest time between these two cities.

Night School Notes

Accurate statistics have been compiled showing that each day spent in high school is worth $25 and each day in college $55, the idea being that no investment in the modern world pays heavier dividends than an education.

Recognizing this, the Burbank board of education is anxious to assist all residents of the community who are desirous of a higher education. To this end, night school work will be given here this fall and winter, along the following lines: Typewriting, shorthand, bookkeeping, auto mechanics, millinery, cooking, dressmaking, vocational mathematics, applied arts, Spanish, gymnasium and other courses.

The board requests applicants to communicate with them, giving name and address written plainly, and stating which of the above subjects they would like to take, and in addition what others. This applies to high school students as well as those not at present going to school.

An advanced education is offered residents of Burbank. The opportunity awaits. The door stands ready to open at the knock.

New Street Link

Verdugo avenue, Burbank, will soon shake hands with Lankershim boulevard by way of the latter's Third street, thus adding another friendly link between the two communities.

The section of the improvement to the Burbank city limits has already been provided for and petitions are now in for the balance. Work is expected to be under way before the end of the year.

Three fine bucks were brought home recently as the result of the prowess of a double quartet of Burbank nimrods. The ones registering kills were Edward Fisher, Charles Hannawalt and A. Roberts. The other five were L. M. Rothenburg, Rupert Malone, Henry Purvier, John Bowman and M. Brown. Venison will be plentiful in Burbank this fall if this keeps up.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Bray, who recently passed through Burbank on a motor trip from Bakersfield to Los Angeles, are planning to make their home here, and have visited the city in search of a home.

James Norwood has purchased from C. H. Hamner the house and lot at 915 Cypress avenue, and will make it his home.

Peter M. Kirby, who recently came to Burbank from the state of Maine, has purchased the Sarah W. Turner place at 428 Santa Anita avenue and will live there with his family.

D. D. Smith of 463 Olive avenue, has left for Chicago, where he has accepted a position. Mrs. Smith will join him soon.

ory's Garden," by Sarafin Pla, Mr. Denni ranking this song among the most tuneful and successful of all his pieces. The song is to be recorded by Madame Alda of the Metropolitan Opera Company and by Arthur Middleton, another famous vocalist.

Among the players who have impressed Mr. Denni with their talent are Miss Hazel Linkogel, who is well known locally as a violinist, and Miss Catherine Guthrie, whose work has stamped them as being possessed of remarkable dramatic ability.

The professional touch that is brought to the training of the members of the cast by Mr. Denni and Mrs. Denni, who collaborates with him in the work, has produced a cast that promises to present a performance that will pack the club's auditorium and that will net a handsome sum for the De Molay exchequer.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 28.—Lyman Stewart, 83, chairman of the board of directors of the Union Oil company, and one of the wealthiest men in the west died last night at his home here. His estate is estimated to be worth more than $50,000,000.

EAGLE ROCK

L. A. RAILWAY TO PROVIDE BUSSES

General Manager Kuhrtz Makes Announcement For Franklin High

Bus service for Franklin High school students will start on or about October 10, is the assurance of George J. Kuhrts, general manager of the Los Angeles Railway company.

Donnell G. Montgomery, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who reports this information, states that it comes most gratifyingly after refusal of the service last week by Frank Van Vranken, assistant general manager of the L. A. railway, in charge of the Los Angeles Motor Bus company.

This information is confirmed by Mrs. J. C. Reiter, president of the Eagle Rock P.-T. A., and by Mrs. H. R. Collins, president of the Buchanan P.-T. A., who state that they have had assurance from Mr. Kuhrts that bus service will begin as soon as busses now ordered arrive, which should be by October 10.

The service will be in operation school day mornings and again in the afternoons, assuring Franklin High school pupils transportation up and down the long stretch of York boulevard not covered by street car service.

Hearing on Street Names

Changes in Eagle Rock street names will be aired in the Los Angeles City Council chambers, L. A. City Hall, at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, October 30, it is announced by Donnell G. Montgomery, secretary of the Eagle Rock Chamber of Commerce.

Anyone not satisfied with proposed changes is invited to state in writing the preference for a new name and submit it at this hearing. Such requests should bear the signatures of at least 51 per cent of residents along the streets in question and no name should be suggested until a careful study of existing Los Angeles street names has been made.

All petitions turned in by the C. of C. have been put on file, Mr. Montgomery states, and Mr. Vanderburg, in charge of the work, has observed the desires expressed in such petitions wherever possible.

An ordinance will be passed by the Los Angeles City Council, following the hearing, whereafter street names will be officially changed, when the list has been posted for thirty days. This would indicate that the new Eagle Rock street momenclature will become effective around December 15.

Local Notes

The Juvenile Music club will meet for the first time this fall tomorrow afternoon, September 29, at the Women's Twentieth Century clubhouse. The hour set is 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The meeting will be under the leadership of Miss Congdon.

The Junior Music club will meet a week from Saturday afternoon, October 6, at the Women's Twentieth Century club, 3 o'clock in the afternoon, under the leadership of Mrs. A. J. Braasch, when the music students of the Inglewood High school will be entertained.

Chief Vollmer of the Los Angeles police department will address the Eagle Rock Improvement association at 8 o'clock the night of Wednesday, October 3, in the auditorium of the Central or Eagle Rock school, announces H. M. Bruce, president of the association. Previous announcements have been made, he states, only to be cancelled by reason of being unable to get Chief Vollmer. His presence this time, however, is assured, Mr. Bruce states, communication to this effect having been received from the chief in person.

P.-T. A. to Meet

The opening meeting of the Eagle Rock P.-T. A. is announced for 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, October 3, at the Eagle Rock school. Mrs. J. C. Reiter, president, will be in the chair and the program will be in charge of Mrs. Anne H. Harrison. There will be a brief business session followed by a ten minute program of two classes, then a reception to the new principal, C. W. Preston, who will outline a few of the things the P.-T. A. can do to co-operate with the school authorities this fall and winter.

Plan Formal Hearing on Street Opening

Formal hearing upon the opening of Eighth street from Pacific avenue to Grand View avenue and the improvement of Railroad street from Los Feliz road to Eulalia street last night was set by the City Council for October 11.

R. C. Paxton of 1370 Highland avenue and Frank B. Webster of 121 East Lomita avenue, who own five per cent of the frontage involved, filed protest against the opening of Eighth street.

"The reason for this protest," they wrote, "is that the proposed opening and widening of the street will work upon the protestants irreparable loss and injury to an extent not readily calculable in money damages."

Zantippe Family Row Intrigues Neighbors

said Mrs. Zantippe when she had related the disastrous circumstances.

"He's a chip off the old block," declared the professor with an effort to conceal his amusement. "I never liked blondes, myself."

"You bruite!" sniffled Mrs. Zantippe. "I guess if he's a chip off the old block, that accounts for it."

"How do you make that out?" demanded Professor Zantippe uneasily, feeling that the tables were about to be turned.

"Because that's a pretty thick old block!"

When they had thrown the last dish they made up and had supper at the cafeteria. The next morning Mrs. Zantippe ordered a new set of dishes, pretty mauve ones with lavender edges, mauve being her favorite color and lavender that of the professor.

When the neighbors heard of it they thought it was such a sweet sentiment over nothing at all.

Out of our past experience we know full well that when they talk of stabilizing prices they mean to boost them up a little and hold them there.—Columbus Dispatch.

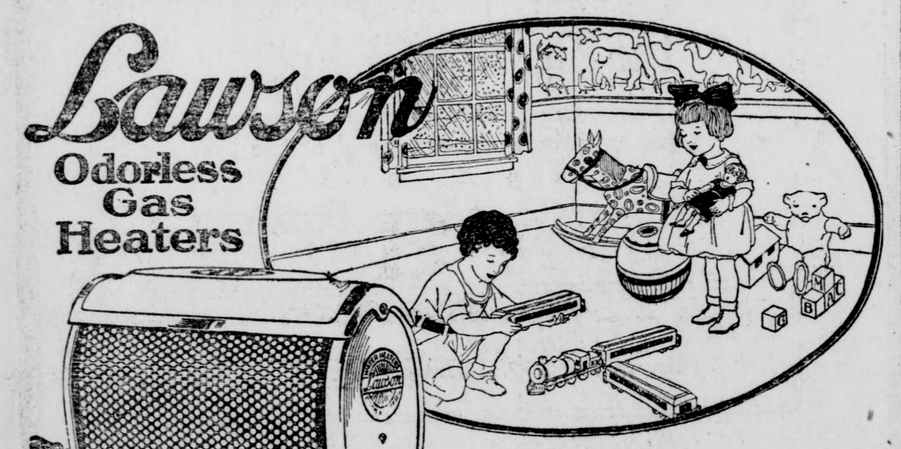
Lawson Odorless Gas Heaters



Is the Nursery Cheerful and Cozy?

EVERY room, especially where there are children, should have a temperature close to 68 degrees. The way is simple.

Make use of a LAWSON!

A LAWSON gives off RADIANT Heat—like that of the sun. There's not the slightest "gassy" odor. Its cheery "glowing heart" consumes the gas efficiently. That means no "stuffy" or devitalized atmosphere

A Lawson is safe! No open flames. Neat. Compact. An economical size for every room.

The only way for us to prove to you the many superior features of the Lawson is to demonstrate it to you.
